Sportswear firm to locate here

The availability of a ready-to-use building and a willing and skilled labor supply were cited as major reasons Ralph Edwards Sportswear of Cape Girardeau has decided to locate a facility here, according to Sikeston City Manager Charles Church.

The company, which manufactures leather sports jackets for national retailers, has moved into a 15,000-square foot section of a building built by Sikeston businessmen Keith Ziegenhorn and Don Baker on Highway 60 two miles east of the Highway 61 intersection.

The firm will continue its manufacturing operations in Cape Girardeau.

Church said Baker and Ziegenhorn conducted the negotiations and are largely responsible for bringing the new industry to Sikeston.

The company, which is to begin production within two weeks, has initially employed 35 people, and Church said the work force is expected to increase to 100 within one year.

Here on a trial basis, the company is expected to base its evaluation on the feasibility of keeping the facility here, including the desire of Sikeston workers to produce and other economic factors.

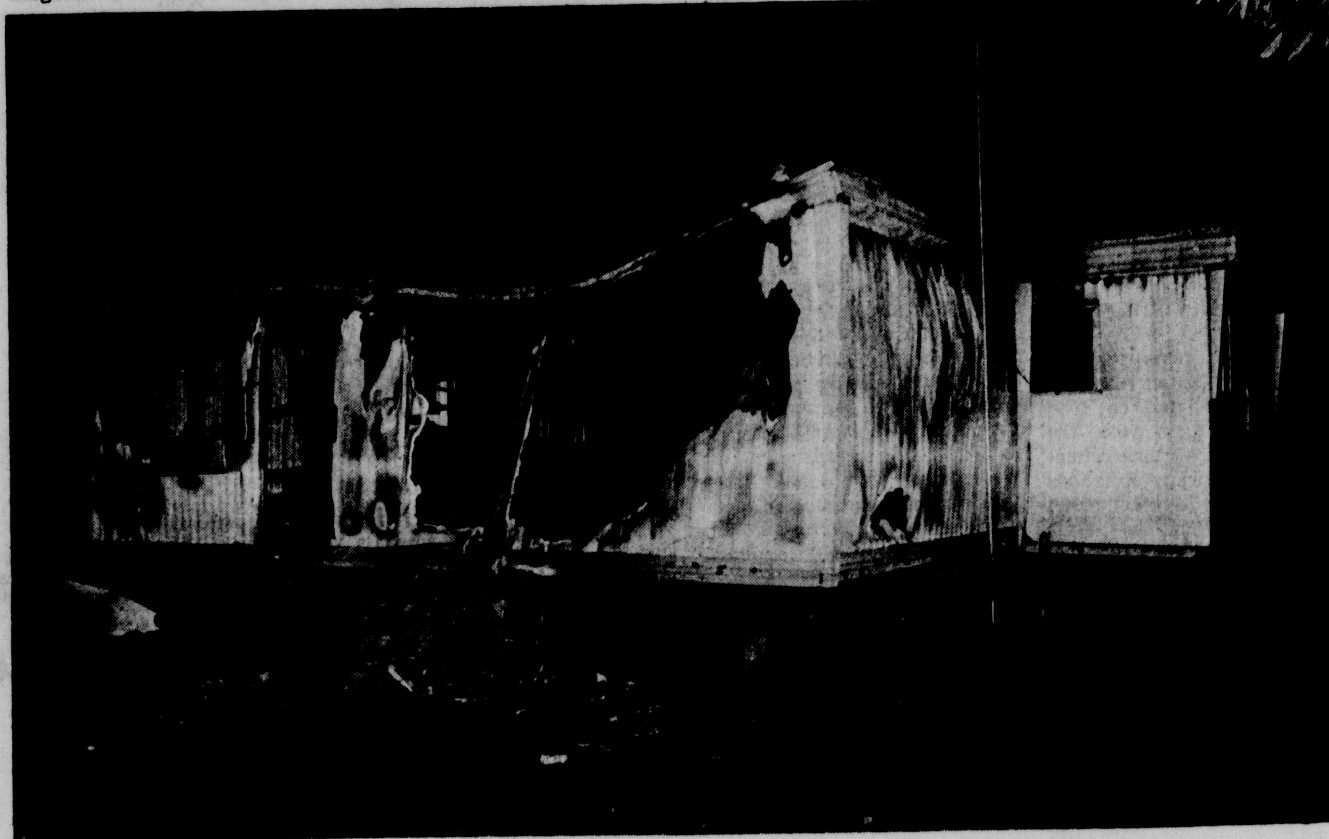

A major selling point, according to Church, was the ready availability of a shell building and workers with skills needed by the manufacturer.

Church said company officials were promised they could be in the building within 30 days, rather than having to wait several months for a building to be constructed.

Although the company already has hired its initial workers, additional workers are to be hired through the Missouri Division of Employment Security as jobs become available.

According to Ziegenhorn, acquisition of the new industry by Sikeston shows the importance of having a shell building and ready work force available when talking to industry about coming to the area.

Fire guts mobile home

A mobile home rented by Paul Patterson of Benton was nearly destroyed by a fire that Benton Volunteer Fire Department officials said started in wiring. The structure reportedly was recently set up on the lot facing Route 77 in Benton, but no one had been seen at the home for nearly two weeks. The firefighters were called to the scene at 1:20 a.m. today. No injuries were reported.

U.S. plans to evacuate Americans from Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. Embassy announced today that its evacuation of Americans and others from Beirut Tuesday would be by road convoy to Damascus.

Chartered planes will fly the evacuees immediately from the Syrian capital to Athens, embassy sources in the Greek capital reported.

There was speculation that ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet would be standing by offshore to take the evacuees off should the overland route be declared unsafe. But there was no confirmation of this from the Embassy.

A road convoy also was planned for the Embassy's first evacuation, in mid-June. But because of hostilities along the route, the Navy removed the 110 Americans and 157 other foreigners who wanted to leave.

The response to the U.S. government's second warning that Americans should leave Lebanon has not been great. The Embassy said 125 Americans, 36 non-American dependents and 176 other foreigners had registered to go. However, the number was expected to increase.

Embassy records show more than 1,000 American citizens still in Lebanon, but most of them are of Lebanese birth with dual Lebanese and American citizenship.

As the countdown for the evacuation began, the joint Palestinian and leftist Lebanese Moslem command reported right-wing Christian forces launched their 61st tank-supported attack at daybreak against the Palestinians' besieged Tal Zaatar refugee camp in southeast Beirut after a nightlong artillery barrage.

"The attack is coming from six fronts," said a communiqué. "Hand-to-hand combat now rages in several parts of the camp."

Christians and Moslems also made hit-and-run raids during the night along the two-mile line separating Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors. Hospital and security sources estimated more than 80 persons killed and 100 wounded during the night.

The leftists reported Syrian troops were making a machine-gun attack on the Nahr el Bared refugee camp on the eastern edge of Tripoli, the Moslems' largest city in northern Lebanon. The communiqué said the Palestinians were returning the fire.

Investigators compile new clues in kidnaping

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say they have compiled new clues which they believe will lead to the capture of three men who kidnaped 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

The 27 escaped unharmed more about 28 hours later.

"We have a gut feeling that we are getting closer," Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said Sunday.

At the Alameda County sheriff's office, Lt. Ed Volpe said detectives had been given information by a man in Sonoma, 65 miles northeast of the kidnap scene, "that pinpoints where (the suspects) were on specific dates last year."

And Jack Baugh, criminal division chief for the Alameda sheriff's office, predicted authorities would be able to identify one or more of the abductors today or Tuesday.

"Right now we're optimistic that our investigative leads are developing toward some positive information that we think will take us to a suspect," said Baugh.

But despite "an astronomical amount of physical evidence," Baugh admitted that investigators still had not established a motive. "The only thing we have at this time is a kidnap," he said. "As to whether it was by terrorists or for ransom, I don't know."

The 26 children and their driver, on a homeward-bound run from summer school, were forced at gunpoint from their bus and herded into two small vans near the Madera County town of Chowchilla, a small farming community in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

Their captors drove them nearly 100 miles to a gravel quarry near Livermore in Alameda County in the southern San Francisco Bay area and forced them into an underground bunker constructed on an old truck bed. The captives dug their way out Friday night after the three masked men left.

Composite drawings of two suspects and detailed descriptions of all three men believed responsible for the kidnaping were released Sunday along with one complete and one partial license number of the two vans.

Bates received three photographs from Alameda County which Baugh said were of "possible suspects." Baugh believed there was a "good possibility" one of the three was involved in the kidnaping.

While investigators searched for three suspects, Bates would not rule out the possibility "four were involved." He declined to elaborate.

Despite progress, Bates was angered by the FBI's withdrawal from the case Saturday.

Motive still mystery

Kidnaping planned months in advance

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — The motive is still a mystery. But the methods used by three silent, masked men who kidnaped 26 children and their bus driver make one thing clear — it was a crime planned out to the fullest, months in advance.

But it didn't work. The children escaped. Still, that the captors could snatch a busload of mostly tiny children in daylight from a town where everyone seems to know everyone else, and then frustrate extensive search efforts by FBI, state and local law officers for more than 24 hours, testifies to their thorough preparation.

When the plan was hatched is unknown. As far back as November 1975, however, one of the suspects is known to have bought three government surplus vans, one of which authorities have traced to the kidnaping. He paid with cash.

Two of the three he bought were never registered. The other was registered two days before the crime in Los Gatos, near San Jose. Because of that, investigators said they had to search for records of the van by hand since the information hadn't been filed in the Department of Motor Vehicles computer.

The name and San Jose address the van was registered under turned out to be phony, according to Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates.

The vans were well equipped for a flight from the scene of the crime. They carried:

—CB radios, ideal for monitoring police activity, but made even more useful by the gabby "CB volunteers" who blasted out from Chowchilla nearly every tidbit of information known about the investigation.

—Painted windows, so no one could see out — or in — and a tent-like tarp made the roundabout route to the gravel pits 100 miles away a mystery to those inside.

—A good supply of extra gasoline which kept the kidnapers from having to pull into a service station and taking the risk of an attendant being tipped off.

California Highway Patrolmen had quickly alerted gas stations on the major routes in the San Joaquin Valley about the kidnaping and had told them to report any suspicious looking vans.

The nearby creekbed where the bus was taken made an ideal hiding spot. Authorities said they could not see the bus at all from the road during daylight hours. It took a hastily organized air search to spot the big yellow bus in a thicket — and just before dark.

In the gravel pit near Livermore, the kidnapers had an excellent hideout.

The children were buried for nearly 18 hours in a World War II vintage military moving van about 25 feet long. It was buried in a spot in the quarry that was not being worked. The spot was surrounded by brush up to six feet tall.

Tests of soil samples taken from the site show the truck had been buried there less than a year, Alameda County investigators said. They added that there are numerous back roads to the spot and kidnapers could have easily driven in to work on the cavern at night without being seen.

Truck operators cited

JEFFERSON CITY — Two Southeast Missouri men were among 12 truck operators cited Friday for violation of Missouri Public Service Commission regulations.

The SeMo carriers, their fines and violations are: Millard Schlimme of Bertrand, fined $500 for hauling at unauthorized rates, and Charles Stephens of Scott City, issued a cease and desist order by the PSC for hauling commodities in bulk without authority.

The total amount of fines assessed against the 12 haulers was $5,625, which will go to the state school fund.

Cases against the carriers were developed by the commission's enforcement section, which sends investigators throughout the state to monitor truck and bus operations.

Car struck in parking lot

A hit and run accident was reported to the Sikeston Police Department Sunday night.

Galin H. Vanness of 1318 McDougal Ave. said someone struck the left front fender of his car while it was parked in the parking lot of the Piggly Wiggly Store and the driver of the other vehicle left the scene.

Two female witnesses told police they saw the accident and gave police a description of the other car, its driver and two passengers.

Youth hurt in accident at Charleston

CHARLESTON — An 18-year-old St. Louis youth, Edward Eoissey, was injured in an automobile accident at 2:59 a.m. Sunday, according to Charleston police.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Commercial and Sixth streets when a car driven north on Sixth Street by Anthony Joseph Swalina, 18, of St. Louis failed to stop at a stop sign and struck a car being driven west on Commercial Street by Michael David Owens, 18, of 505 Ward Road.

The extent of injuries to Eoissey, a passenger in the Swalina car, was not recorded, nor was it reported where he was taken for treatment.

Vann said he planted the Stoneville 213 variety on May 10. He said the blooms are about two weeks late this year because of weather conditions.

Thieves busy in Charleston

CHARLESTON — Two stereo speakers, a small amount of change, a lawnmower and a citizens band radio were reported stolen in separate thefts that occurred between Friday and today.

Austva Easton of 718 Warren Street reported at 2:02 a.m. today that two stereo speakers valued at $80 had been stolen sometime between 8:30 p.m. Sunday and 2 a.m. today from her home. The house reportedly had been unlocked.

Vernice Burris of 515 West Ada Street reported at 12:25 p.m. Saturday that a small amount of change was taken from her home between 7:30 a.m. and noon Saturday. The house had been entered through a bathroom window after a screen had been removed. The money was later returned by some children.

A lawnmower was taken from a utility room at the back of a carport at the home of Geraldine Cissell of 704 Cleveland St. sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Friday, according to a report made to police at 11 a.m. Saturday by the woman.

Harvey Gaskins of Wyatt reported to police at 1:50 p.m. Friday that a citizens band radio valued at $129 had been taken from the back seat of his unlocked car while it was parked at 312 Cleveland St. Police reported the radio was returned at 4:15 p.m.

Burglary items recovered

NEW MADRID — Items stolen in two burglaries earlier this month were recovered over the weekend by the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department.

A window air conditioner and a desk radio, reported stolen sometime Thursday night from Kenneth Dye's Barber Shop in Gideon, were recovered Saturday in Tallapoosa by Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo, who said three suspects are under investigation.

The air conditioner was taken out of a window from outside the building. The thieves then entered the shop through the window and stole the radio.

Loot consisting of a collection of old coins valued at $150, some pocket knives, flashlights, watches and a radio, which were stolen July 9 in a break-in at Lutes Package Store in Parma, were found in a shed at Parma.

One suspect is in custody and another is being sought for investigation, Wingo said.

5 hurt in accidents

Five persons received injuries in separate traffic accidents on area roads Saturday and Sunday, according to the highway patrol.

A Kennett boy received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 7:15 p.m. Saturday three miles south of Kennett on Route A.

The accident occurred when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Houston Watson, 73, of Kennett Route One, crossed the centerline and sideswiped a westbound pickup driven by John Preston Churchwell, 45, of Kennett.

A passenger in the Watson vehicle, Danny Ray Watson, 12, received injuries and was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

At 6:50 p.m. Saturday, an accident at the intersection of Route D and Sixth Street in Lilbourn resulted in minor injuries to a passenger in one of two vehicles involved.

The accident occurred when the driver of a northbound pickup truck, Larry Don Bunting, 22, of Lilbourn Route One failed to stop at a stop sign and struck the left front of a westbound car driven by Kenneth Lynn Akridge, 21, of Marston.

A passenger in the Bunting vehicle, Pan Bunting, 20, of Lilbourn Route One received injuries and was taken to Delta Community Hospital in Several thefts were reported to police over the weekend.

Two men reported citizens band radio antennas were stolen from their vehicles parked at their homes Friday or Saturday.

J.W. Lee, 526 Malcolm St., told police an antenna valued at $30 was taken off a car parked at his home.

Elbert H. Wright, 524 Coleman St., said an antenna valued at $35 was removed from a car parked in front of his home.

Police said the home was

There was speculation that

ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet would be standing by offshore to take the evacuees off should the overland route be declared unsafe. But there was no confirmation of this from the Embassy.

A road convoy also was planned for the Embassy's first evacuation, in mid-June. But because of hostilities along the route, the Navy removed the

Summertime is for Giving Blood

One question sometimes raised by people who wish to do more with their lives is: "What can I do?"

Well, there are probably a thousand and one things that one can do to help others, to make this a better country, to help secure and defend our freedom, and to preserve our heritage. But one very practical thing that almost every person between the age of 18 and 66 can do is to give blood, the gift of life.

Summertime is a period when accidents happen. Many people are away from home, enjoying vacation or long weekends. But the need for blood goes on.

On April 16, 1947, a ship tied to a dock at Texas City, Texas, exploded with no warning. There were 561 people killed in that disaster, with another 3,000 wounded. But many of those who died might have lived if there had been enough blood plasma. Out of that tragedy came the American Association of Blood Banks, which now boast over 5,000 members in all 50 states and in 35 foreign countries. The Association established standards for blood banks, set up a system for voluntary inspection and accreditation, organized 25 regional laboratories for identification of blood types and processing, and set up a computerized file in Chicago of available blood supplies. But all of the organizational skill of hospitals and community banks is of little value without the help of donors.

Although January is the time of greatest need for blood and is traditionally "blood donating month," the summer months reflect another "peak" in demand. Yes, now is a good time to give blood, the gift of life.

COSTS RISE WITH CONSUMPTION

Those tens of millions of Americans planning automobile vacations this year, as well as those who will stay home, are going to be paying more for gasoline. Gasoline consumption in the United States is already exceeding the rates forecast for 1976, and the traditional heavy-use summer months are still to come.

No major shortages are expected anywhere. But the only reason there won't be any is because we will be importing more oil, "and that will mean higher prices," says Jack H. Herring, marketing vice president for Marathon Oil Co., because foreign crude costs more than domestic crude.

"It's a simple equation," he says. "More imports equal higher cost, higher cost equals higher prices."

According to Herring, price controls are a major factor in the "erosion of the conservation ethic." The rollback of domestic crude oil prices and extension of price controls under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act was followed by a trend back to bigger cars and higher gasoline consumption, he says. "While the political rhetoric exhorted consumers to conserve energy and stressed the need to reduce America's reliance on foreign oil, the legislation pointed us the other way by decreasing incentives to shore up domestic energy supplies."

That, of course, is the industry's argument. But whether or not most Americans agree with it, there is no escaping the simple equation: Higher gasoline consumption is going to mean higher gasoline prices, no matter where we get it from.

There seems to be a growing debate about "reverse discrimination" as to whether it has gone too far.

What angers people is that they think civil-rights laws are being perverted to discriminate against whites and males, instead of just to prevent or correct bias against blacks, Spanish-surnamed persons, American Indians, Orientals and women.

In the past, many persons have been reluctant to complain publicly about the reverse discrimination they saw, but the issue is in the open now. And those who attack such bias are no longer fearful of being labeled "sexist" or "racist."

Suits complaining of reverse discrimination are being filed in increasing numbers, with some success, according to U.S. News. But the suits present a thorny problem for the courts.

On the one hand, the preferences being attacked have a legally sanctioned goal—the correction or prevention of racial or sexual bias. But, those not covered by such preferences charge it is just as illegal to discriminate against whites and men as against minorities or women.

The over-all objection by critics is that reverse discrimination involves preferential treatment. Such preferences, they argue, are part of a "runaway" government effort to fight bias. Support for such arguments has come from some unlikely sources.

For example, when the Supreme Court refused to decide the reverse-discrimination issue in 1974, now-retired Supreme Court Justice William Douglas said he could not tolerate preferences based on one's membership in a group.

"There is no constitutional right for any race to be preferred," he said.

"(A) white is entitled to no advantage by reason of that fact; nor is he subject to any disability. Whatever his race, he (has) a constitutional right to (be) considered on his individual merits."

In another unlikely alliance, some normally liberal Jewish groups have joined critics in attacks on minority-enrollment programs at universities. These groups fear such programs might be detrimental to Jews who apply and are admitted to universities disproportionately to their numbers.

Finally, some liberal labor officials have attacked antibias techniques that undermine established seniority systems by jumbling women or minority-group members with little seniority over veteran white workers.

The Supreme Court has several reverse-discrimination cases on its docket currently and more in the appeals pipeline. The cases deal with claims of reverse discrimination in the areas of employment, education, housing and voting rights.

How the Court decides these cases will more clearly decide where the antidiscrimination rights of the minorities and women end and where those of whites and males begin.

DETENTE IS DEAD

If you are following the political chatter of most candidates seeking the presidential nomination of their party (Reagan and Wallace excepted), you'd have to wonder where most of them stand on Soviet and United States where detente has led us up a blind alley.

So it is time we listened to an expert: "At the moment, the question is not how the Soviet Union will find a way out of totalitarianism, but how the West will be able to avoid the same fate...I wouldn't be surprised at the sudden and imminent fall of the West...The West is on the verge of a collapse created by its own hands...You may call this detente if you like, but after Angola, I just can't understand how one's tongue can utter this word."

Thus spoke Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn to a BBC interviewer. At the same time, it occurred to Gerald Ford to rename his foreign policy, in as much as "detente" had become a "snicker-producer"...The Public has come to understand that the Administration can neither define nor defend the policy that the word denotes. Henceforth, a State Department spokesman promised, neither Mr. Ford's tongue nor the tongue of the State Department will utter the word. After all, explained the President, "Detente is only a word that was coined. I don't think it is applicable any more." (The President on NBC: "I think it would be very unwise for a President-me or anyone else to abandon detente. I think detente is in the best interest of this country. It is in the best interest of world stability, world peace...and politically I think any candidate who says abandon detente will be the loser in the long run." But that was in January.)

We now await a major policy statement in keeping with this terminological adjustment. Meanwhile, Detente is dead. Long Live Peace through Strength. Even Henry, the Secretary of Detente, has begun talking from this side of his mouth.

THE LITTON RECORD

Most candidates for office love to wave their arms and point to their voting record in Congress. They do if they believe that record might get them a couple of votes.

We were impressed by the roll call vote in Congress that appeared a few days ago in the Kansas City Star. We turned to see just how active Congressman Jerry Litton was in the halls of Congress.

Many persons might recall a few weeks ago when there was a talk of eliminating some of the post offices in the area, one of the loudest persons to decry the plan was the Sixth District Congressman. And a few days ago there was a resolution in Congress "urging the Postal Service not to carry out cutbacks that would affect the level of mail service—agreed to, 399 to 14.

Congressman Litton was absent.

"Bill to extend the life of Federal Energy Administration until Sept. 30, 1976—rejected, 194 to 216."

Congressman Litton was absent.

"Bill authorizing $6.8 billion in foreign military aid to the Middle East and giving Congress the power to veto any U.S. arms sales abroad costing more than $25 million—passed 258 to 146."

Congressman Litton was absent.

A few days prior to that, Congressman Litton had an opportunity to vote on food stamps. By 222-184 vote, the House rejected an amendment to an agriculture appropriations bill that would have cut $794.4 million from the Food Stamp program, limiting that controversial program to $2 billion for fiscal 1977.

Missouri's Sixth District Congress was registered as "Not Voting."

This is a man who is asking you to vote for him for the high post of United States Senator. The record is there for all to see.

OPERATION BIG APPLE

New York had a love fest at the Democratic National Convention. Despite dire predictions that the city could not handle a national political convention, almost everyone agreed the people were hospitable, the cops were friendly and New Yorkers went out of their way to make the visitors feel at home.

What the hell happened? I'll tell you what happened. Mayor Abe Beame pulled off one of the neatest tricks in modern American history. The people we saw and dealt with in Mahattan last week weren't New Yorkers.

This is the true story of this remarkable week. A month ago Mayor Beame met with his staff to deal with the problem of the convention. Beame and his aides were very nervous that the Democratic Convention could turn into a debacle. People would get raped and mugged and assaulted and, what was worse, be ignored on the streets.

One of Beame's people, a veteran of Indochina, suggested, "Why don't we do what Cambodia did in Pnom Penh?"

The mayor asked, "What was that?"

"Why don't we evacuate everyone from Manhattan for the week and drive them into the countryside?"

"Where would we put them?"

"We could build relocation camps on Staten Island and ring the place with barbed wire."

The comptroller whistled.

"That's about 2 million people. How do we round up 2 million people?"

"We could make all the streets one way going south to the Battery. There will be such a traffic jam that their only escape will be over Verreazano Bridge to Staten Island. When they get there we'll make them drive directly to the camps."

"What about the people who take the subway?"

"All the trains will go directly downtown, and when the people exit from the subway, they'll find themselves on ferry boats which will take them across the

SHRINKING STATE

OF REPUBLICAN CORE

The contest for control of Congress is always a sideshow to the main event in a presidential year. If post-World War II history runs true to form, it will also be a foregone conclusion.

Whatever the outcome of the presidential race, the Democrats will emerge as the majority party in Congress, as they have in every election since 1954. The only real question is how large their majority will be.

A poll by the Harris organization finds that by a lopsided 52 per cent to 27 per cent, voters prefer the Democrats over the Republicans in the races for Congress this November. (All 435 seats in the House will be up for grabs in 1976 and 34 of the 100 seats in the Senate.)

A substantial 47 per cent of Americans now consider themselves to be Democrats, while no more than 20 per cent answer to the name Republican. The remaining 33 per cent identify themselves as "independents."

That is one reason the Democrats are likely to retain control of Congress, a control that has been broken only twice since 1932. Another, say the pollsters, is that for some time the public has felt it is better to have a divided government in Washington so that the legislative and executive branch could be a rein on each other.

If so, Americans have added a new form of check-and-balance to their system of government not envisioned by the framers of the Constitution.

A more fundamental reason, however, seems to lie in the way Americans perceive the two major parties. For all the regional and ideological divisions among the Democrats, which not infrequently have enabled a Republican minority in Congress to thwart or modify the programs of a Democratic president, the Democrats have been viewed since Franklin D. Roosevelt as the party with answers to the nation's problems, or at least a guiding philosophy adaptable to the changing challenges of the times.

The Republicans have been viewed as the party of reaction, if not reactionism—a kind of clean-up crew sent to "straighten out the mess in Washington" whenever the Democrats seemed to have gone too far. Republican successes have been due to Democratic excesses. The Democrats lead, the Republicans try to tidy up behind.

As one observer recently commented, if Republican philosophy, stripped to its essentials, stands for the maximum of individual freedom and the minimum of government interference in people's lives, the party is bereft of any grand design for the nation embodying programs that will both serve that philosophy and at the same time provide practical solutions to the needs and desires of Americans.

All the great domestic legislation since New Deal days, from social security to civil rights to the "war on poverty," have been of Democratic inspiration, or have been so perceived by the public.

Whenever progressivism has reared its head in Republican ranks, it has been met with cries of "me-toism," as if the only legitimate Republican alternatives to the Democratic programs had to be 180 degrees in the opposite direction. And despite Republican faith that there is a bedrock strain of conservatism in Americans waiting for the call of the right candidate, the one time in the modern era that they offered a thorough-going conservative for president, he was overwhelmingly rejected at the polls.

Meany's Cold War: Carter rushes to make soothing peace with angry, jilted veteran labor chiefs

NEW YORK—It didn't take Jimmy Carter very long to get the message from the old lion's den. Labor's chief of chiefs, George Meany, gave the nominee the same tough bargaining treatment with which the chunky, crusty and precinct-trained No. 1 labor strategist has drubbed American Presidents since he taught Franklin Roosevelt that it isn't true all one needs to fear is fear itself.

Within a few hours after the candidate had short-circuited Meany by ignoring him and conferring with leaders of the labor coalition of nine liberal unions Wednesday morning, Meany in Washington dispatched his warning:

The vast national AFL-CIO political machine, COPE, would have no dealings with the Carter presidential campaign unless Meany as consulted, not insulted, by "the man."

Further, the message as elaborated by Meany's Hotel Americana operational chiefs said in effect that every national union president will be told to go out and campaign as they wish. I have it on absolute authority that several influential labor leaders were threatening to bolt to Jerry Ford.

Thus by noontime—less than 90 minutes after the left-of-center Labor Coalition Clearing House presidents such as auto union head Leonard Woodcock had conferred with Carter in the 21st floor sanctum, the Democratic banner bearer ordered his own gatekeepers, campaign director Hamilton Jordan and political director Landon Butler, to make peace with Meany.

Whether or not they did won't actually be known until the race heats up in October. But sure as syrup with pancakes, by 2:30 Wednesday they were in tightly guarded secret conversations with Meany's No. 1 man, national secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, national political director Al Barkan and the elder statesman's executive assistant, Tom Donahue.

Earlier that day Carter had talked with AFL-CIO construction union leader Bob Georgine—and had asked him exactly how does the labor federation and its departments work. That's about what Larry O'Brien and Kenny O'Donnell of the Carter political operation asked Lane Kirkland and Barkan. In effect, how will labor operate such a national campaign?

Meany's lieutenants said this would be discussed at the July 19 AFL-CIO Executive council session. No problem—"We've been in this kind of campaign many times," were the words Kirkland used coolly. Remember, he's labor's house intellectual.

And Carter's men were told that a professional labor liaison

Yet even with the 1964 Goldwater debacle so fresh in mind, the conservative challenge mounted by Ronald Reagan has been forcing President Ford further and further to the right in order to ensure his party's nomination, even before he can begin to appeal to the broad center of the electorate (represented by that 33 per cent of independents), which any presidential candidate must capture if he hopes to be elected.

Thus the likelihood is not only that the Democrats will control the 95th Congress but that no matter who wins the presidency, the hard core of Americans calling themselves Republicans will continue to shrink.

From the Boston Globe

From Tacoma Community College comes news that the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalog is being used as a basic text to teach "survival English" to Vietnamese refugees and other newcomers to this country.

One wonders about the merit of introducing new residents to the English language by having them learn to identify bean bag chairs, pinch pleated draperies and leisure suits. On the other hand the course is called "survival English" and, in some ways, the Sears catalog is what surviving in this country is all about.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

hiring between the Carter camp and labor isn't necessary. Just Merany and Carter themselves. That's where the decisions should be made.

Kirkland delivered the message as only he, because of his father-son relationship with Meany, can. Then he flew back to Washington for a lunch with Meany and Henry Kissinger.

But COPE director Al Barkan stayed. And Hamilton Jordan kept telephoning him.

The talks were stilted and uncomfortable. No one really knows each other. But almost a full day before the public announcement word had been seeped in that Carter had surrendered to Sen. Glenn and would take Frizg Mondale. Euphoria swept the AFL-CIO and COPE suites. And for reasons not much discussed publicly.

Mondale was the equation of Hubert Humphrey whom throne-maker Charles Kirbo had once threatened to "bloody up" politically. Kirbo had said there was much dirty stuff on the older Minnesota Senator. This disclosed an instinct for the jocular which has left many labor leaders scratching their throats.

Further, Humphrey probably will lead the Senate for the next six years at least. If Carter wins, then Mondale as Vice President would be the clearest pipeline to the powerful controller of the upper house. This pleases Meany as much as a hole-in-one.

And, should the Democrats win, then there would not be any paring of the slim Senate margin needed to override President Ford's veto.

Reason: Mondale is from a state with a Democratic-Farmer-Labor governor. Thus should the Senator become Vice President, his replacement will be a Democrat. Should Muskie or Glenn, from states with non-Democratic governors, have been chosen and elected, there probably would have been a replacement by a Republican. Or an independent.

And carrying New York state is vital. In a tight race the balance of power here is with the single-state Liberal party. Mondale is one of its favorites. He was given the accolade late in 1974 when he was its annual banquet guest of honor. For decades the Liberals have guessed right in advance bookings of their yearly October banquet speakers (like Lyndon Johnson in 1963 and George McGovern in 1972).

So Mondale is a mutually felicitous compromise between Carter, Meany and the militant "nine." There appears little doubt that Jimmy Carter learned quickly not to ruffle the old lion's mane even if the candidate does believe and has said he can win without the labor chiefs.

By the shades of Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson, Brother Carter is thinking thrice about rushing in where political angels fear to tread.

Suits complaining of reverse discrimination are being filed in increasing numbers, with some success, according to U.S. News. But the suits present a thorny problem for the courts.

On the one hand, the preferences being attacked have a legally sanctioned goal—the correction or prevention of racial or sexual bias. But, those not covered by such preferences charge it is just as illegal to discriminate against whites and men as against minorities or women.

The over-all objection by critics is that reverse discrimination involves preferential treatment. Such preferences, they argue, are part of a "runaway" government effort to fight bias. Support for such arguments has come from some unlikely sources.

For example, when the Supreme Court refused to decide the reverse-discrimination issue in 1974, now-retired Supreme Court Justice William Douglas said he could not tolerate preferences based on one's membership in a group.

"There is no constitutional right for any race to be preferred," he said.

"(A) white is entitled to no advantage by reason of that fact; nor is he subject to any disability. Whatever his race, he (has) a constitutional right to (be) considered on his individual merits."

In another unlikely alliance, some normally liberal Jewish groups have joined critics in attacks on minority-enrollment programs at universities. These groups fear such programs might be detrimental to Jews who apply and are admitted to universities disproportionately to their numbers.

Finally, some liberal labor officials have attacked antibias techniques that undermine established seniority systems by jumping women or minority-group members with little seniority over veteran white workers.

The Supreme Court has several reverse-discrimination cases on its docket currently and more in the appeals pipeline. The cases deal with claims of reverse discrimination in the areas of employment, education, housing and voting rights.

How the Court decides these cases will more clearly decide where the antidiscrimination rights of the minorities and women end and where those of whites and males begin.

DETENTE IS DEAD

If you are following the political chatter of most candidates seeking the presidential nomination of their party (Reagan and Wallace excepted), you'd have to wonder where most of them stand on Soviet and United States where detente has led us up a blind alley.

So it is time we listened to an expert: "At the moment, the question is not how the Soviet Union will find a way out of totalitarianism, but how the West will be able to avoid the same fate. I wouldn't be surprised at the sudden and imminent fall of the West. The West is on the verge of a collapse created by its own hands.... You may call this detente if you like, but after Angola, I just can't understand how one's tongue can utter this word."

Thus spoke Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn to a BBC interviewer. At the same time, it occurred to Gerald Ford to rename his foreign policy, in as much as "detente" had become a "snicker-producer".... The Public has come to understand that the Administration can neither define nor defend the policy that the word denotes. Henceforth, a State Department spokesman promised, neither Mr. Ford's tongue nor the tongue of the State Department will utter the word. After all, explained the President, "Detente is only a word that was coined. I don't think it is applicable any more." (The President on NBC: "I think it would be very unwise for a President-me or anyone else to abandon detente. I think detente is in the best interest of this country. It is in the best interest of world stability, world peace...and politically I think any candidate who says abandon detente will be the loser in the long run." But that was in January.)

We now await a major policy statement in keeping with this terminological adjustment. Meanwhile, Detente is dead. Long Live Peace through Strength. Even Henry, the Secretary of Detente, has begun talking from this side of his mouth.

THE LITTON RECORD

Most candidates for office love to wave their arms and point to their voting record in Congress. They do it if they believe that record might get them a couple of votes.

We were impressed by the roll call vote in Congress that appeared a few days ago in the Kansas City Star. We turned to see just how active Congressman Jerry Litton was in the halls of Congress.

Many persons might recall a few weeks ago when there was a talk of eliminating some of the post offices in the area, one of the loudest persons to decry the plan was the Sixth District Congressman. And a few days ago there was a resolution in Congress "urging the Postal Service not to carry out cut-backs that would affect the level of mail service—agreed to, 399 to 14.

Congressman Litton was absent.

"Bill to extend the life of Federal Energy Administration until Sept. 30, 1976—rejected, 194 to 216."

Congressman Litton was absent.

"Bill authorizing $6.8 billion in foreign military aid to the Middle East and giving Congress the power to veto any U.S. arms sales abroad costing more than $25 million—passed 258 to 146."

Congressman Litton was absent.

A few days prior to that, Congressman Litton had an opportunity to vote on food stamps. By 222-184 vote, the House rejected an amendment to an agriculture appropriations bill that would have cut $794.4 million from the Food Stamp program, limiting that controversial program to $2 billion-$4 billion for fiscal 1977.

Missouri's Sixth District Congress was registered as "Not Voting."

This is a man who is asking you to vote for him for the high post of United States Senator. The record is there for all to see.

OPERATION BIG APPLE

New York had a love fest at the Democratic National Convention. Despite dire predictions that the city could not handle a national political convention, almost everyone agreed the people were hospitable, the cops were friendly and New Yorkers went out of their way to make the visitors feel at home.

What the hell happened? I'll tell you what happened. Mayor Abe Beame pulled off one of the neatest tricks in modern American history. The people we saw and dealt with in Mahattan last week weren't New Yorkers.

This is the true story of this remarkable week.

A month ago Mayor Beame met with his staff to deal with the problem of the convention. Beame and his aides were very nervous that the Democratic Convention could turn into a debacle. People would get raped and mugged and assaulted and, what was worse, be ignored on the streets.

One of Beame's people, a veteran of Indochina, suggested, "Why don't we do what Cambodia did in Phnom Penh?"

The mayor asked, "What was that?"

"Why don't we evacuate everyone from Manhattan for the week and drive them into the countryside?"

"Where would we put them?" "We could build relocation camps on Staten Island and ring the place with barbed wire."

The comptroller whistled. "That's about 2 million people. How do we round up 2 million people?"

"We could make all the streets one way going south to the Battery. There will be such a traffic jam that their only escape will be over Verrazano Bridge to Staten Island. When they get there we'll make them drive directly to the camps."

"What about the people who take the subway?"

"All the trains will go directly downtown, and when the people exit from the subway, they'll find themselves on ferry boats which will take them across the

SHRINKING STATE OF REPUBLICAN CORE

The contest for control of Congress is always a sideshow to the main event in a presidential year. If post-World War II history runs true to form, it will also be a foregone conclusion:

Whatever the outcome of the presidential race, the Democrats will emerge as the majority party in Congress, as they have in every election since 1954. The only real question is how large their majority will be.

A poll by the Harris organization finds that by a lopsided 52 per cent to 27 per cent, voters prefer the Democrats over the Republicans in the races for Congress this November. (All 435 seats in the House will be up for grabs in 1976 and 34 of the 100 seats in the Senate.)

A substantial 47 per cent of Americans now consider themselves to be Democrats, while no more than 20 per cent answer to the name Republican. The remaining 33 per cent identify themselves as "independents."

That is one reason the Democrats are likely to retain control of Congress, a control that has been broken only twice since 1932. Another, say the pollsters, is that for some time the public has felt it is better to have a divided government in Washington so that the legislative and executive branch could be a rein on each other.

If so, Americans have added a new form of check-and-balance to their system of government not envisioned by the framers of the Constitution.

A more fundamental reason, however, seems to lie in the way Americans perceive the two major parties. For all the regional and ideological divisions among the Democrats, which not infrequently have enabled a Republican minority in Congress to thwart or modify the programs of a Democratic president, the Democrats have been viewed since Franklin D. Roosevelt as the party with answers to the nation's problems, or at least a guiding philosophy adaptable to the changing challenges of the times.

The Republicans have been viewed as the party of reaction, if not reactionism—a kind of clean-up crew sent to "straighten out the mess in Washington" whenever the Democrats seemed to have gone too far. Republican successes have been due to Democratic excesses. The Democrats lead, the Republicans try to tidy up behind.

As one observer recently commented, if Republican philosophy, stripped to its essentials, stands for the maximum of individual freedom and the minimum of government interference in people's lives, the party is bereft of any grand design for the nation embodying programs that will both serve that philosophy and at the same time provide practical solutions to the needs and desires of Americans.

All the great domestic legislation since New Deal days, from social security to civil rights to the "war on poverty," have been of Democratic inspiration, or have been so perceived by the public.

Whenever progressivism has reared its head in Republican ranks, it has been met with cries of "me-tooism," as if the only legitimate Republican alternatives to the Democratic programs had to be 180 degrees in the opposite direction. And despite Republican faith that there is a bedrock strain of conservatism in Americans waiting for the call of the right candidate, the one time in the modern era that they offered a thorough-going conservative for president, he was overwhelmingly rejected at the polls.

Meany's Cold War: Carter rushes to make soothing peace with angry, jilted veteran labor chiefs

NEW YORK—It didn't take Jimmy Carter very long to get the message from the old lion's den. Labor's chief of chiefs, George Meany, gave the nominee the same tough bargaining treatment with which the chunky, crusty and precinct-trained No. 1 labor strategist has drubbed American Presidents since he taught Franklin Roosevelt that it isn't true all one needs to fear is fear itself.

Within a few hours after the candidate had short-circuited Meany by ignoring him and conferring with leaders of the labor coalition of nine liberal unions Wednesday morning, Meany in Washington dispatched his warning:

The vast national AFL-CIO political machine, COPE, would have no dealings with the Carter presidential campaign unless Meany as consulted, not insulted, by "the man."

Further, the message as elaborated by Meany's Hotel Americana operational chiefs said in effect that every national union president will be told to go out and campaign as they wish. I have it on absolute authority that several influential labor leaders were threatening to bolt to Jerry Ford.

Thus by noontime—less than 90 minutes after the left-of-center Labor Coalition Clearing House presidents such as auto union head Leonard Woodcock had conferred with Carter in the 21st floor sanctum, the Democratic banner bearer ordered his own gatekeepers, campaign director Hamilton Jordan and political director Landon Butler, to make peace with Meany.

Whether or not they did won't actually be known until the race heats up in October. But sure as syrup with pancakes, by 2:30 Wednesday they were in tightly guarded secret conversations with Meany's No. 1 man, national secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, national political director Al Barkan and the elder statesman's executive assistant, Tom Donahue.

Earlier that day Carter had talked with AFL-CIO construction union leader Bob Georgine—and had asked him exactly how does the labor federation and its departments work. That's about what Larry O'Brien and Kenny O'Donnell of the Carter political operation asked Lane Kirkland and Barkan. In effect, how will labor operate such a national campaign?

Meany's lieutenants said this would be discussed at the July 19 AFL-CIO Executive council session. No problem—"We've been in this kind of campaign many times," were the words Kirkland used coolly.

Remember, he's labor's house intellectual.

And Carter's men were told that a professional labor liaison

Yet even with the 1964 Goldwater debacle so fresh in mind, the conservative challenge mounted by Ronald Reagan has been forcing President Ford further and further to the right in order to ensure his party's nomination, even before he can begin to appeal to the broad center of the electorate (represented by that 33 per cent of independents), which any presidential candidate must capture if he hopes to be elected.

Thus the likelihood is not only that the Democrats will control the 95th Congress but that no matter who wins the presidency, the hard core of Americans calling themselves Republicans will continue to shrink.

Survival course

From the Boston Globe
From Tacoma Community College comes news that the Sears Roebuck and Co. catalog is being used as a basic text to teach "survival English" to Vietnamese refugees and other newcomers to this country.

One wonders about the merit of introducing new residents to the English language by having them learn to identify bean bag chairs, pinch pleated draperies and leisure suits. On the other hand the course is called "survival English" and, in some ways, the Sears catalog is what surviving in this country is all about.

Meany's Cold War: Carter rushes to make soothing peace with angry, jilted veteran labor chiefs

NEW YORK—It didn't take Jimmy Carter very long to get the message from the old lion's den. Labor's chief of chiefs, George Meany, gave the nominee the same tough bargaining treatment with which the chunky, crusty and precinct-trained No. 1 labor strategist has drubbed American Presidents since he taught Franklin Roosevelt that it isn't true all one needs to fear is fear itself.

Within a few hours after the candidate had short-circuited Meany by ignoring him and conferring with leaders of the labor coalition of nine liberal unions Wednesday morning, Meany in Washington dispatched his warning:

The vast national AFL-CIO political machine, COPE, would have no dealings with the Carter presidential campaign unless Meany as consulted, not insulted, by "the man."

Further, the message as elaborated by Meany's Hotel Americana operational chiefs said in effect that every national union president will be told to go out and campaign as they wish. I have it on absolute authority that several influential labor leaders were threatening to bolt to Jerry Ford.

Thus by noontime—less than 90 minutes after the left-of-center Labor Coalition Clearing House presidents such as auto union head Leonard Woodcock had conferred with Carter in the 21st floor sanctum, the Democratic banner bearer ordered his own gatekeepers, campaign director Hamilton Jordan and political director Landon Butler, to make peace with Meany.

Whether or not they did won't actually be known until the race heats up in October. But sure as syrup with pancakes, by 2:30 Wednesday they were in tightly guarded secret conversations with Meany's No. 1 man, national secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, national political director Al Barkan and the elder statesman's executive assistant, Tom Donahue.

Earlier that day Carter had talked with AFL-CIO construction union leader Bob Georgine—and had asked him exactly how does the labor federation and its departments work. That's about what Larry O'Brien and Kenny O'Donnell of the Carter political operation asked Lane Kirkland and Barkan. In effect, how will labor operate such a national campaign?

Meany's lieutenants said this would be discussed at the July 19 AFL-CIO Executive council session. No problem—"We've been in this kind of campaign many times," were the words Kirkland used coolly.

Remember, he's labor's house intellectual.

And Carter's men were told that a professional labor liaison hiring between the Carter camp and labor isn't necessary. Just Meany and Carter themselves. That's where the decisions should be made.

Kirkland delivered the message as only he, because of his father-son relationship with Meany, can. Then he flew back to Washington for a lunch with Meany and Henry Kissinger.

But COPE director Al Barkan stayed. And Hamilton Jordan kept telephoning him.

The talks were stilted and uncomfortable. No one really knows each other. But almost a full day before the public announcement word had been seeped in that Carter had surrendered on Sen. Glenn and would take Frizg Mondale. Euphoria swept the AFL-CIO and COPE suites. And for reasons not much discussed publicly.

Mondale was the equation of Hubert Humphrey whom throne-maker Charles Kirbo had once threatened to "bloody up" politically. Kirbo had said there was much dirty stuff on the older Minnesota Senator. This disclosed an instinct for the jugular which has left many labor leaders scratching their throats.

Further, Humphrey probably will lead the Senate for the next six years at least. If Carter wins, then Mondale as Vice President would be the clearest pipeline to the powerful controller of the upper house. This pleases Meany as much as a hole-in-one.

And, should the Democrats win, then there would not be any paring of the slim Senate margin needed to override President Ford's veto.

Reason: Mondale is from a state with a Democratic-Farmer-Labor governor. Thus should the Senator become Vice President, his replacement will be a Democrat. Should Muskie or Glenn, from states with non-Democratic governors, have been chosen and elected, there probably would have been a replacement by a Republican. Or an independent.

And carrying New York state is vital. In a tight race the balance of power here is with the single-state Liberal party. Mondale is one of its favorites.

He was given the accolade late in 1974 when he was its annual banquet guest of honor. For decades the Liberals have guessed right in advance bookings of their yearly October banquet speakers (like Lyndon Johnson in 1963 and George McGovern in 1972).

So Mondale is a mutually felicitous compromise between Carter, Meany and the militant "nine." There appears little doubt that Jimmy Carter learned quickly not to ruffle the old lion's mane even if the candidate does believe and has said he can win without the labor chiefs.

By the shades of Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson, Brother Carter is thinking thrice about rushing in where political angels fear to tread.

No one knows if lid supply is sufficient

Associated Press Writer
Government officials, manufacturers and consumers alike are keeping their fingers crossed and hoping that there won't be another shortage of canning lids this year. So far, however, no one is willing to predict what will happen.

Previous shortages, caused by lack of materials, a failure of manufacturers to anticipate the demand and hoarding by some Americans, prompted investigations by Congress and the Federal Trade Commission.

None of the probes turned up any evidence of wrongdoing on the part of the industry. Neither did they provide any clues on how to stop the problem from recurring.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says manufacturers are expected to turn out more than four billion replacement lids this year. Bill Kerr of the Kerr Glass Co. of Los Angeles, a major manufacturer, said he did not know whether four billion would be enough.

"I'd have to ask you what the demand will be," he said, noting that no one anticipated the sharp jump in the number of people who started growing their own fruits and vegetables to try to beat inflation and later turned to home canning to store their produce.

(Note: Canning jars are reusable; lids aren't. Each new jar comes with a lid and there were claims that manufacturers were deliberately withholding replacement lids so that home canners would have to buy the jars even if they didn't need them. The claims were never proved.)

The crunch — if there is one — will come later in the summer when people actually start canning. The advance situation varies from state to state.

"We anticipate no shortage," said a spokesman for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, interviewed early in the summer.

In contrast, a spokesman for the California Department of Consumer Affairs said he had surveyed stores and found,
"There's definitely a shortage.
Not as bad as last year, but definitely a shortage."

Write your own cookbook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
If you want to write a cookbook and publish it yourself, open a restaurant! Do the cooking. You'll have plenty of chance to develop recipes and find out what people really like.

That's what Marge Mitchell and Joan Sedgwick did. Marge was an executive in a public-relations agency and Joan was a college history professor.
Three years ago, in the middle of successful careers in New York, they pulled up stakes.
They moved to Middlebury, Vt., and opened a restaurant there
— the Bakery Lane Soup Bowl.

Marge does the cooking. Joan is the cashier and manages the business end. Although both women were realistic about the undertaking, the work is even harder than they imagined it would be. Fortunately success has come fast. First because they use only high-quality ingredients and the food is prepared and served as it would be in their own home to discriminating guests. This is possible to do and yet keep prices modest because the menu is limited: soups, homemade breads, salads, desserts and a few extras like fabulously good chicken-liver pate and delicious sangria. In addition, their restaurant is in an old building overlooking a creek and Marge and Joan have made the most of its charm.

From the Soup Bowl's beginning, townspeople and tourists and students from Middlebury College flocked to it. Customers started urging the owners to write a cookbook. Some even offered to help get it together.

Two years ago Marge and Joan started assembling the book. From her large collection of recipes Marge chose those that customers of the Soup Bowl had appreciated most.
These were in good shape because she was well-versed in recipe-writing: she had a degree in home economics; had done a stint at a Stouffer's restaurant; had handled food accounts in an agency; and was an inveterate reader of the best-written cookbooks.

Next came the format of the book. Both women wanted it to be in good taste; to be printed on excellent paper in clear type; to have attractive and interesting layout and illustrations. They had chosen brown, white and gold for the interior of their restaurant and decided to carry out this color scheme in their cookbook. The illustrations were culled from collections of early herbals and seed catalogs. Because book design is not their field they turned to an artist who lives near them and credit the beauty of the book to her.

Important in bringing out the cookbook was the matter of financing and printing. Their bank credit was good and there was a cooperative printer nearby, so that settled that.

The Bakery Lane Soup Bowl
Cookbook came out several months ago and it could not have more enticing recipes or be handsomer. When I talked to Marge on the phone, I said I thought a large publishing house would have been happy to publish it and asked why they had done so themselves.
Her answer was, "We didn't want the hassle of finding a suitable publisher. Besides, we'll have any money it makes all to ourselves!"

The cookbook is a success. It is selling at the rate of 150 copies a week (at $6.50 a copy mail order) and has just won a national award for graphic art.
Here is one of its reliable recipes.

1 bag (10 ounces) fresh spinach
1 1/4 pounds sliced bacon
1 1/2 heads iceberg lettuce, shredded
1 1/2 cups sliced scallions
8 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2-3rds to 3/4 cup Sweet-Sour Dressing, see below

Pick off stems from spinach and discard. Wash leaves, then drain well. Chop coarsely and chill. Cook bacon until crisp.
Drain on paper towels and crumble. When ready to serve, combine spinach, lettuce and scallions in salad bowl.
Sprinkle with eggs and bacon.
Toss with dressing and serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

Sweet-Sour Dressing: Beat together well 2-3rds cup sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup vegetable oil, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Makes about 2 cups.

Hughes graduated from Sikeston Senior High School in 1975.

The couple will be married in a 4 p.m. ceremony Sept. 11 at the Oneness Pentecostal Church at Morehouse.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those girls who have long hair. When you take a bath, put a large toothed comb in the tub, then after showering or bathing, wash your hair as usual, pour cream rinse or conditioner on your hair and leave on for one minute. Before washing this out comb the hair with the rinse still on. When the comb slides easily, rinse the hair thoroughly. This keeps the hair from breaking so badly and seems easier on the scalp, too. — MRS. P.S.

DEAR POLLY — Ironing clothes may be almost a thing of the past for many modern homemakers, but some of us still do it. When ironing large items such as tablecloths and curtains, use a serving tray table to catch the article and keep it off the floor. If the thing being ironed is very large, use two tray tables — one in front and one in back of the ironing board. —

Dehumanization of the elderly

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the young man who signed himself "A Non-Person" really got to me. You said,
"Everyone is Somebody — there are not 'non-persons.'" You are wrong. If you don't believe me, just visit a home for the aged.

When people are ignored by family and friends or treated as if they have lived too long, they become dehumanized — or non-persons.

The abuse of the elderly in our country is on the increase, and one need only read the Senate reports to see what I mean. If your readers would volunteer to become ombudsmen to help ease the loneliness of those unfortunate people in our long-term facilities, we would one day have places away from home where people LIVE — not just human warehouses where they are put away to die.

Please tell your readers they can perform a valuable service by joining ombudsmen. It's a wonderful way to make one's life count by helping others. —
Janet G. In Riverside, Calif.

Dear Janet: Thanks for your letter. You have given me something to think about — and I hope others, as well. For those who want to become ombudsmen, contact your state Department on Aging. If your state doesn't have one, write to:
Division of Services to the Aged,
Department of Human Resources, 1329 E Street N.W.,
Washington, D.C. 20004.

Dear Ann Landers: Tom Kiene, who produces a lively column for the Topeka Capital Journal, wrote something recently that you might want to share with your readers. Here it is:

"What worries Ann Landers concerns us, too. One of her correspondents, age 19, was contemplating marriage with a French horn player. She was dismayed because her fiancé refused to kiss her. He kept insisting that his lips were his only means of livelihood and he had to protect them. Said Ann, opting for the practical, 'Tell him goodbye and find a guy who plays the violin.'"

"Other side effects of dating a French horn player are astonishing, if not deleterious, as reported to us by John Beatty, a former press secretary to Sen. Jim Pearson.

He told of a couple of Washington girls who were exchanging confidences on the kissing technique of musicians.

"I believe," offered one, "the French horn player is best."
"Well, maybe," concluded the other. "But he sure does hold you funny." — We Love You In Topeka

Dear Love: Thanks for my laugh for the day. And please say hello to Tom Kiene. He's one of my oldest friends in the business — or I should say one of my best friends of long standing.

Dear Ann: Here is a message to the woman whose husband enjoys sex to the full, but she gets zero.

There are millions more like you, dearie. I haven't heard a wife in 30 years say she is content with her married sex life.

Don't expect these husbands to take the time or patience with you that they would take with some tramp they pick up in a bar — or women they meet at work. A wife is just part of the furniture. If these men would expend the energy at home that they do elsewhere, they'd be amazed at how good "home cooking" can be. You suggested that the wife dream up a fantasy.
Well, I have, for ten years. Now
I want the real thing. — The Mrs.

Dear Mrs.: The woman who wrote to me described herself as "sexually dead." Her husband was not inconsiderate, selfish or clumsy. She had sought professional help but nothing changed. Her complaint was a feeling of guilt, then she added,
"I wish I could get some enjoyment out of the act." My advice as good and I stand by it.

Are your parents too strict?
Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents?"
How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O.
Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

13-year-olds move to state

CHAFFEE—Sikeston's 13-year-old Junior Babe Ruth League All-Stars will be participating in next week's state tournament at Dexter as a result of their win in the District Tournament at Chaffee Sunday. Sikeston swept through the double-elimination event undefeated, downing New Madrid 8-3 in the championship game.

Sikeston, which had defeated New Madrid in the opening round 11-8 before topping Tri-County 7-1 in the winner's bracket, got a four-hit pitching performance from Marty Williams, who also had three singles and scored two runs to pace an eight-hit assault.

New Madrid, which had defeated Tri-County 2-1 earlier in the evening to make into the finals against Sikeston, jumped out to a 3-1 lead after two innings. A triple by Palmer scored the first run of the game in the first after a one-out walk. After Jimmy Alford led off the Sikeston half of the inning with a walk, and moved to second on a passed ball, Williams' two-out single tied it at 1-1. But walks came back to haunt the Sikeston hurler in the second as a pair of leadoff passes scored on McKay's single with two out.

But Sikeston exploded in the third to score four times with the aid of three errors. New Madrid pitcher McKay got the first two men easily, but an error by the right fielder opened the gates for four unearned runs. A single by Williams was followed by a pair of errors. Mike

Sherman and Kevin Roberts then came through with basehits to complete the rally.

In the fifth, Williams again started the rally, this time with his third hit of the game. Scott McDowell reached on an error, and Rusty Greer followed with a double to drive home a pair. Greer scored later to give Sikeston their final run.

The state 13-year-old tournament gets underway next Monday night at Dexter.

Ferguson's single in 10th gives Cardinals split of twinbill with Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, after trading away such sluggers as Dave Kingman, Bobby Bonds and George Foster in recent years, don't count much on power hitting these days.

"I thought we might squeak away with another win in that second game," Manager Bill Rigney said Sunday, reflecting the Giants' offensive thinking, after a doubleheader split with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bobby Murcer's 13th homer of the season and third since the All-Star break helped San Francisco win the opener 5-4, but St. Louis pulled out a 5-4 victory in the nightcap on Joe Ferguson's 10th inning single off Dave Heaverlo, 3-1, the fifth Giant pitcher.

The Giants had only three hits through seven innings of the second game but led 3-2. A three-base throwing error by Cards shortstop Lee Richard allowed Mike Sadek to score the tie-breaking run in the seventh.

One of the Giants' hits, however, was a fourth inning homer by Darrell Evans who, like Murcer, seems to have rediscovered the home run. Six of Evans' seven homers have come since the Giants acquired him from Atlanta a month ago.

St. Louis won the second game despite the absence of second baseman Mike Tyson, their hottest hitter, who broke a finger on his left hand in the opener. He was hitting .305 after belting a second inning homer Sunday, but will be out the rest of the month.

"He's been playing good ball in the field, too, having just a great season," said Manager Red Schoendienst. "He's still young and he's been getting better each year."

Willie Crawford, who raised his batting average to .343 with three hits in the doubleheader, said, "We've got lots of depth in the infield, we'll be okay."

San Francisco won the opener 5-4 on pinch hitter Chris Arnold's sixth inning sacrifice fly off former Giant Pete Falcone, 6-9. The pitching victory went to Jim Barr, 7-6, who put Tyson out of action with a hard slide into second base on a stolen base in the second inning.

In the second game, Ted Simmons sent the Cards ahead 4-3 with a two-run pinch hit single in the eighth. The Giants tied it in the bottom of the eighth when Gary Matthews got an infield single, went to second on Murcer's groundout and scored on Evans' single to right.

Murcer hit at least 22 homers in five consecutive seasons with the New York Yankees, but dropped to 10 his last year in New York and totalled 11 with the Giants last season.

"I haven't gotten any power back. I never lost it," said Murcer after raising his RBI total to 57. "I've just got my stroke again."

Rigney said, "He's got that quick, compact swing now that we haven't seen for a while. He's not taking as many pitches, either."

Sikeston, Semo North win tourney openers

JACKSON—Strong pitching performances by Glen Alexander of Sikeston and Scott Wachter of SeMo North put their respective teams into the winner's bracket of the four-team District Senior Babe Ruth League Tournament at Jackson. Sunday's opening round of play saw Sikeston down SeMo South 7-1 and SeMo North edge Jackson 1-0.

Alexander tossed a no-hitter for Sikeston in the opener as the team which placed third in last year's Midwest Plains Regional opened the District event with a victory. Alexander surrendered an unearned run in the first inning as the Sikeston team, playing together for the first time competitively, committed five errors in the first inning.

They didn't commit another miscue the entire game, and Alexander's nine-strikeout performance was good enough to prevent SeMo South from getting into the hit column.

Sikeston erased their brief deficit with a four-run outburst in the second inning. David Shell led it off with a triple and scored after a walk to Jeff Limbaugh and a sacrifice fly by Ron Schlosser. The second run of the inning score as Alexander grounded out, and two more crosse the plate on second baseman Ivie's error.

Sikeston scored three more times in the fifth when Limbaugh tripled with one and came home on Larry Jackson's single.

Schlosser walked with two outs and scored along with Jackson when SeMo South's third baseman threw the ball away.

In the second game, Wachter locked up in a pitches duel with Brent Beussink of Jackson that saw each hurler give up only one hit. The only run of the game came in the bottom of the fourth when Don Kiefer of SeMo North singled up the middle and stole second. Kiefer scored on an error by third baseman Huter of Jackson.

Jackson takes on SeMo South in a loser's bracket game tonight at 6:30. Sikeston squares off against SeMo North at 8:00 p.m. Tonight's meet, Sikeston-SeMo North loser meets the winner of the first game Tuesday night at 7:00, with the winner meeting tonight's winner's bracket victory Tuesday night at 7:00.

Local swimmers lose to Jackson in dual meet

Sikeston swimmers continued their winning ways in individual events but lacked the manpower to hang on to their lead through the relay events losing to Jackson Saturday by a narrow margin, 348-323.

Jodie Harris won her third trophy of the season for an individual swimmer. Her 21 points included first place wins in freestyle and backstroke. Among the boys, trophies were awarded to Ben Bass, who placed first in backstroke and breaststroke, and finished with 18 points; Mark Moore with 18 points and a first in butterfly; and Kevin Blanton also with 18 points and a first in breaststroke.

Andy Aldrich took first place in both freestyle and breaststroke, the only events offered in the 8 and under boys division. He totalled 16 points. Sikeston swimmers with point totals in the double numbers were: John Sides, 10 points; Mark Blanton, 13 points with a first in breaststroke; Doan Moorman, 13 points with a first in freestyle; Diane Moore, 13 points with a first in backstroke; Julie Sides, 13 points with a first in butterfly; Regina Shelton, 13 points with a first in backstroke; and Byron Dillon with 10 points.

Additional first place finishers were: Matt Blanton, Backstroke; Jeanette Cooney, breaststroke; and Mona Payne, backstroke.

Also winning one or more ribbons in individual events were: John Limbaugh, Melinda Dame, Sherry Melton, Clay Brown, Diane Dillon, Debbie Schuchart, Ann Cooney, Rob Aldrich, Amy Bass, Missi Harris, Madeline Blanton, Kathy Sargent, Alan Oliver, Kevin Shelton, Cindy Grimes, Wendy Baker, and Nancy McQueen.

Ferguson's single in 10th gives Cardinals split of twinbill with Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, after trading away such sluggers as Dave Kingman, Bobby Bonds and George Foster in recent years, don't count much on power hitting these days.

"I thought we might squeak away with another win in that second game," Manager Bill Rigney said Sunday, reflecting the Giants' offensive thinking, after a doubleheader split with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bobby Murcer's 13th homer of the season and third since the All-Star break helped San Francisco win the opener 5-4, but St. Louis pulled out a 5-4 victory in the nightcap on Joe Ferguson's 10th inning single off Dave Heaverlo, 3-1, the fifth Giant pitcher.

The Giants had only three hits through seven innings of the second game but led 3-2. A three-base throwing error by Cards shortstop Lee Richard allowed Mike Sadek to score the tie-breaking run in the seventh.

One of the Giants' hits, however, was a fourth inning homer by Darrell Evans who, like Murcer, seems to have rediscovered the home run.

Six of Evans' seven homers have come since the Cardinals acquired him from Atlanta a month ago.

St. Louis won the second game despite the absence of second baseman Mike Tyson, their hottest hitter, who broke a finger on his left hand in the opener. He was hitting .305 after belting a second inning homer Sunday, but will be out the rest of the month.

San Francisco won the opener 5-4 on pinch hitter Chris Arnold's sixth inning sacrifice fly off former Giant Pete Falcone, 6-9. The pitching victory went to Jim Barr, 7-6, who put Tyson out of action with a hard side into second base on a stolen base in the second inning.

In the second game, Ted Simmons sent the Cards ahead 4-3 with a two-run pinch hit single in the eighth. The Giants tied it in the bottom of the eighth when Gary Matthews got an infield single, went to second on Murcer's groundout and scored on Evans' single to right.

Murcer hit at least 22 homers in five consecutive seasons with the New York Yankees, but dropped to 10 his last year in New York and totalled 11 with the Giants last season.

"I haven't gotten any power back. I never lost it," said Murcer after raising his RBI total to 57.

"I've just got my stroke again," Rigney said. "He's got that quick, compact swing now that we haven't seen for a while. He's not taking as many pitches, either."

Blankenship wins again as Saints keep rolling

ANNA, Ill. — Give Sikeston Saints pitcher Bob Blankenship a new name: Iron Man. "Iron Man" pitched his third complete-game victory in just seven days Sunday afternoon, halting the Anna-Cobden Fuzzies 8-3. The older Blankenship brother got hitting support from the entire Saints lineup. The streaking Sikeston squad, while winning its ninth ballgame in a row, fipped flame-throwing Anna lefty Dana Pearson for 14 hits and nine walks.

Shortstop Grant Dambach and firstbaseman Jim Sauter supplied the power. After the Saints struck for four first inning runs, Sauter tacked on another in the third, polling a linedrive home run to right. Dambach gave his team a pair of insurance runs in the eighth by tripling in Eisenbach, then scoring on an error. Dambach finished with three RBI's.

The Saints' magic began in the first. Rick Eisenbach, whose two safeties raised his average into the lofty .457 territory, led off with a screamer into left. Bill Schatzley walked just before Dambach singled to center, scoring Eisenbach. When the Anna centerfielder fumbled the ball, Schatzley crossed the plate, too. After an out, Les Schatzley singled Dambach to third, then stole second. Dependable Stan Hall singled both runners in for a 4-0 lead.

Sauter's long belt made it 5-0 in the third and Bill Schatzley singled in the sixth run in the fourth.

Trailing 6-0, the home team forced across a run in the bottom of the fourth with the aid of both Saints' errors. They scored again in the last of the fifth on Gene Adams' two-out single. The score stayed at 6-2 until Dambach took over the hitting show in the eighth.

The Fuzzies scored a run in the bottom of the eighth, but they couldn't reach the weary-armed Blankenship for anything else the rest of the way. The win pushed "Iron Man's" record to 4-2.

The Saints hold an 8-5 record in Bi-State league games, good for second place in the standings. The next game for Sikeston will be Thursday night when they travel to Perryville to wind up the season's series with the Stars. Perryville has beaten the Saints in two of the first three meetings and are struggling to retain a playoff spot.

Romanian gymnast gets perfect score

MONTREAL (AP) — The American men swept their swimming event, the East German women dominated theirs and the Russians started a fuss.

All were more or less expected in the first full day of competition in the Olympic Games, but the perfect performance by an 8-pound, 4-foot-11, teenage Romanian girl couldn't be anticipated. It'd never happened before.

And that's what started the fuss.

Larissa Latynine, the Russian coach whose charges normally dominate gymnastics, tossed a disgusted look at the judges

who had awarded little Nadia Comaneci a perfect score of 10 for her performance on the uneven parallel bars in the compulsory exercises.

"I question the performance," said the Russian coach, obviously seeing major competition for her stars, Ludmila Toukrisheva and Olga Korbut.

"I can see a 9.5, but it should not have been a 10. There were some flaws. It was not perfect," the Russian coach said.

The judges said otherwise. And the poker-faced 15-year-old marvel who achieved the Olympics' first perfect performance agreed. "I knew it was a 10 all the way," she said.

She responded to the ovation with a shy little smile, a rare occurrence for Little Miss Stoneface, returned to the podium and let waves of sound and adoration wash over her.

But while the Russians may have taken a setback there, they picked up two of the five gold medals awarded in Sunday's first day of competition: the Americans scored a 1-2-3 sweep in the only men's swimming event; the East Germans got two golds — one their first ever in women's swimming, the sport they're expected to dominate in the quadrennial Games that run through Aug. 1, and the American basketball team won handily.

Mike Bruner, easily spotted by his shaved head that led the way through the water, had to set a world record to beat out teammate Steve Gregg, Wilmington, Del., to win the men's 200-meter butterfly.

Bruner, a 20-year-old Stanford sophomore, was timed in 1:59.23. Gregg also broke the old world record at 1:59.54. Billy Forrester, Birmingham, Ala., took the bronze in 1:59.96.

Long John Nabor, a towering 6-foot-6er from Menlo Park, Calif., also set a world record, 56.19 in qualifying heats for the 100-meter backstroke but wasn't overly excited about it.

"That sweep did a lot more for me than my own record," he said. "It was just sheer joy to see it."

The Americans' only other medal came as a poor second — some 10 yards back of the East German women's world record 4:07.95 in the 400-meter medley relay. Shirley Babashoff, Fountain Valley, Calif., swimming the freestyle leg, won a duel with Canada's Anne Jardin, to give the United States the silver.

"It was our first," said East Germany's Kornelia Ender, one of the products of a concentrated government athletic training effort. She left unsaid the obvious fact that it won't be their last. The East German women hold world records in 12 of the 13 Olympic swimming events.

The American basketball team, which lost its only Olympic game in the controversial finals at Munich in 1972, started the road back with a convincing, 106-86 victory over Italy, a team that beat Olympic defending champion Russia in the European championships.

"I'm sure Russia has to be awed with what they say today," said center Mike Kupchak of North Carolina, who tossed in 19 points. Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame scored 20 and Scott May of Indiana 16 as the Americans ran up a lead that reached 30 points at one time.

"I was surprised with the ease with which we won," said Coach Dean Smith.

The Russians were undismayed, however, and rolled over Mexico 120-77.

In another game, Czechoslovakia whipped Egypt 103-64. The Egyptian players took the court just moments before their government in Cairo ordered the team home, making it the 27th to pull out of these politically-plagued Games.

Most of them, more than 20 African nations, went out Saturday in protest of New Zealand's participation. They have objected to a New Zealand rugby team's tour of racially-segregated South Africa. Guyana became the first Western Hemisphere team to pull out Sunday.

The International Olympic Committee was meeting Monday and the possibility of sanctions against the teams that withdrew was a likely topic for conversation.

The Russians picked up their two golds in flyweight weightlifting and the 100 kilometer

team road race, winning the cycling event in 2:08.53. Poland and Denmark followed.

Alexander Voronin, a Siberian factory worker, tied his own world record with a combined lift of 242.5 kilos (533.5 pounds) for the gold in flyweight weightlifting. Gyorgy Koszegi of Hungary was second and Mohammad Nassiri of Iran third.

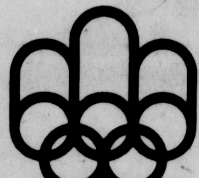

An East German student, Uwe Potteck, won the free pistol gold medal with 573 points from a possible 600. Harald Volmar, also of East Germany, was second with 566 and Rag-mar Vollmar of Sweden third with 562.

Among Monday's gold medal events were four in swimming, the women's 100-meter freestyle and 200-meter butterfly, men's 100-meter backstroke and 200-meter freestyle, small bore rifle and another weightlifting final.

MONTREAL (AP) — There are no dog days at the equestrian sports site 45 miles east of here. The Olympic committee said dogs at the Bromont Olympic course could distract riders and scare horses. So it's no dogs allowed.

New Madrid dumps Sikeston; could win JBR event tonight

BERTRAND — New Madrid scored seven times in the third inning to take an 8-1 lead and went on to rout Sikeston 9-1 and move into the finals of the District Junior Babe Ruth League Tournament at Bertrand Sunday.

In a loser's bracket game, Tri-County blasted Dexter 16-6. New Madrid hurler Johnson faced Sikeston's Eddie Wasson in the battle between the tournament's only undefeated teams Sunday. The winners go to Wason for a pair of runs in the second, then knocked him out of the box in the third, collecting three hits and three walks and capitalizing on a pair of Sikeston errors. Derek Braden and James Garner held New Madrid scoreless the rest of the way, but Sikeston couldn't mount an attack against Johnson's pitching. Johnson, who allowed only a single to Jeff Young and a double to Steve Burgess, set Sikeston down in order in four of the seven innings.

In the loser's bracket contest, Jeff Boner pitched Tri-County to their victory over Dexter. Tri-County scored nine times in the second inning to help account for their lopsided margin of victory.

Sikeston meets Tri-County at 6:00 tonight in the loser's bracket, with the winner taking on New Madrid at 8:00. New Madrid can win the tournament with a victory, but should either Sikeston or Tri-County beat them, a 7:00 game Tuesday night would be required to decide a champion.

Morehouse softball tourney continues

MOREHOUSE — Bloomfield and Poplar Bluff have advanced to the third-round of the Morehouse Invitational Softball Tournament after record victories in the Men's and Women's action Sunday.

In the Men's Division of the double-elimination tournament, Bloomfield nipped Canolou 11-10 Sunday. Canolou had won out in the opening round Saturday 4-3 over Morehouse, while Bloomfield had outscored Vanduser 7-3.

In other Men's Division play, Morley ripped Jean's Studio 15-5 Saturday and Tanner Street Church of God downed Bank of Sikeston 9-8 Sunday in opening round games.

In the Women's Division, Poplar Bluff routed Strickland 14-0 in a winner's bracket game Sunday. Bluff had defeated Benton 8-2 Saturday, while Strickland had won by forfeit over Bloomfield.

Morehouse and New Hamburg also won in the opening round. Morehouse outscored Kelso 15-13 and New Hamburg downed Dexter 14-6.

Tonight's schedule finds a pair of loser's bracket contest on the books. Bloomfield meets Kelso in a Women's Division game at 7:00, followed by a Men's Division loser's bracket game between Morehouse and Jean's Studio at 8:30.

Romanian gymnast gets perfect score

MONTREAL (AP) — The American men swept their swimming event, the East German women dominated theirs and the Russians started a fuss.

All were more or less expected in the first full day of competition in the Olympic Games, but the perfect performance by an 88-pound, 4-foot-11, teenage Romanian girl couldn't be anticipated. It'd never happened before.

And that's what started the fuss.

Larissa Latynine, the Russian coach whose charges normally dominate gymnastics, tossed a disgusted look at the judges

who had awarded little Nadia Comaneci a perfect score of 10 for her performance on the uneven parallel bars in the compulsory exercises.

"I question the performance," said the Russian coach, obviously seeing major competition for her stars, Ludmila Toukrisheva and Olga Korbut.

"I can see a 9.5, but it should not have been a 10. There were some flaws. It was not perfect," the Russian coach said.

The judges said otherwise. And the poker-faced 15-year-old marvel who achieved the Olympics' first perfect performance agreed. "I knew it was a 10 all the way," she said.

She responded to the ovation with a shy little smile, a rare occurrence for Little Miss Stone-face, returned to the podium and let waves of sound and adoration wash over her.

But while the Russians may have taken a setback there, they picked up two of the five gold medals awarded in Sunday's first day of competition; the Americans scored a 1-2-3 sweep in the only men's swimming event; the East Germans got two golds — one their first ever in women's swimming, the sport they're expected to dominate in the quadrennial Games that run through Aug. 1, and the American basketball team won handily.

Mike Bruner, easily spotted by his shaved head that led the way through the water, had to set a world record to beat out teammate Steve Gregg, Wilmington, Del., to win the men's 200-meter butterfly.

Bruner, a 20-year-old Stanford sophomore, was timed in 1:59.23. Gregg also broke the old world record at 1:59.54. Billy Forrester, Birmingham, Ala., took the bronze in 1:59.96.

Long John Nabor, a towering 6-foot-6er from Menlo Park, Calif., also set a world record, 56.19 in qualifying heats for the 100-meter backstroke but wasn't overly excited about it.

"That sweep did a lot more for me than my own record," he said. "It was just sheer joy to see it."

The Americans' only other medal came as a poor second — some 10 yards back of the East German women's world record 4:07.95 in the 400-meter medley relay. Shirley Babashoff, Fountain Valley, Calif., swimming the freestyle leg, won a duel with Canada's Anne Jardin, to give the United States the silver.

"It was our first," said East Germany's Kornelia Ender, one of the products of a concentrated government athletic training effort. She left unsaid the obvious fact that it won't be their last. The East German women hold world records in 12 of the 13 Olympic swimming events.

The American basketball team, which lost its only Olympic game in the controversial finals at Munich in 1972, started the road back with a convincing, 106-86 victory over Italy, a team that beat Olympic defending champion Russia in the European championships.

"I'm sure Russia has to be awed with what they say today," said center Mike Kupchak of North Carolina, who tossed in 19 points. Adrian Danley of Notre Dame scored 20 and Scott May of Indiana 16 as the Americans ran up a lead that reached 30 points at one time.

"I was surprised with the ease with which we won," said Coach Dean Smith.

The Russians were undismayed, however, and rolled over Mexico 120-77.

In another game, Czechoslovakia whipped Egypt 103-64. The Egyptian players took the court just moments before their government in Cairo ordered the team home, making it the 27th to pull out of these politically-plagued Games.

Most of them, more than 20 African nations, went out Saturday in protest of New Zealand's participation. They have objected to a New Zealand rugby team's tour of racially-segregated South Africa. Guyana became the first Western Hemisphere team to pull out Sunday.

The International Olympic Committee was meeting Monday and the possibility of sanctions against the teams that withdrew was a likely topic for conversation.

The Russians picked up their two golds in flyweight weightlifting and the 100 kilometer

team road race, winning the cycling event in 2:08.53. Poland and Denmark followed.

Alexander Voronin, a Siberian factory worker, tied his own world record with a combined lift of 242.5 kilos (533.5 pounds) for the gold in flyweight weightlifting. Gyorgy Koszegi of Hungary was second and Mohammad Nassiri of Iran third.

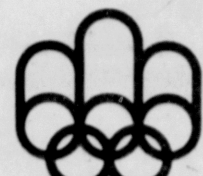

An East German student, Uwe Potteck, won the free pistol gold medal with 573 points from a possible 600. Harald Volmar, also of East Germany, was second with 566 and Rag-

mar Vollmar of Sweden third with 562.

Among Monday's gold medal events were four in swimming, the women's 100-meter freestyle and 200-meter butterfly, men's 100-meter backstroke and 200-meter freestyle, small bore rifle and another weightlifting final.

MONTREAL (AP) — There are no dog days at the equestrian sports site 45 miles east of here. The Olympic committee said dogs at the Bromont Olympic course could distract riders and scare horses. So it's no dogs allowed.

New Madrid dumps Sikeston; could win JBR event tonight

BERTRAND — New Madrid scored seven times in the third inning to take an 8-1 lead and went on to rout Sikeston 9-1 and move into the finals of the District Junior Babe Ruth League Tournament at Bertrand Sunday.

In a loser's bracket game, Tri-County blasted Dexter 16-6.

New Madrid hurler Johnson faced Sikeston's Eddie Wasson in the battle between the tournament's only undefeated teams Sunday. The winners got to Wasson for a pair of runs in the second, then knocked him out of the box in the third, collecting three hits and three walks and capitalizing on a pair of Sikeston errors. Derek Braden and James Garner held New Madrid scoreless the rest of the way, but Sikeston couldn't mount an attack against Johnson's pitching. Johnson, who allowed only a single to Jeff Young and a double to Steve Burgess, set Sikeston down in order in four of the seven innings.

In the loser's bracket contest, Jeff Boner pitched Tri-County to their victory over Dexter. Tri-County scored nine times in the second inning to help account for their lopsided margin of victory.

Sikeston meets Tri-County at 6:00 tonight in the loser's bracket, with the winner taking on New Madrid at 8:00. New Madrid can win the tournament with a victory, but should either Sikeston or Tri-County beat them, a 7:00 game Tuesday night would be required to decide a champion.

Morehouse softball tourney continues

MOREHOUSE — Bloomfield and Poplar Bluff have advanced to the third-round of the Morehouse Invitational Softball Tournament after record victories in the Men's and Women's action Sunday.

In the Men's Division of the double-elimination tournament, Bloomfield nipped Canalou 11-10 Sunday. Canalou had won out in the opening round Saturday 4-3 over Morehouse, while Bloomfield had outscored Vanduser 7-3.

In other Men's Division play, Morley ripped Jean's Studio 15-5 Saturday and Tanner Street Church of God downed Bank of Sikeston 9-8 Sunday in opening round games.

In the Women's Division, Poplar Bluff routed Strickland 14-0 in a winner's bracket game Sunday. Bluff had defeated Benton 8-2 Saturday, while Strickland had won by forfeit over Bloomfield.

Morehouse and New Hamburg also won in the opening round. Morehouse outscored Kelso 15-13 and New Hamburg downed Dexter 14-6.

Tonight's schedule finds a pair of loser's bracket contest on the books. Bloomfield meets Kelso in a Women's Division game at 7:00, followed by a Men's Division loser's bracket game between Morehouse and Jean's Studio at 8:30.

Chaffee officer injured in fracas

CHAFFEE — A policeman suffered a broken nose and facial injuries and two Scott City youths required treatment at a hospital here, following a fracas that erupted when Chaffee policemen stopped three cars loaded with youths Friday night.

Two Scott City men, Paul W. Chaney, 18, and Anthony R. Chaney, 20, have been charged with felonious assault on an officer and two more Scott City men will face misdemeanor charges in City Court arising from the incident.

Chaffee Patrolman Robert Grubbs and Sgt. Ray Olive stopped the cars at Circle Park here in an effort to avoid a possible gang fight between youths of the two cities.

"After stopping the cars, I asked one of the youths for his identification and he gave me the name John Doe," said Sgt. Olive. "He was using offensive, abusive language, and I placed him under arrest, and he resisted."

In the fracas that followed, Patrolman Grubbs was struck on the face and his nose broken.

"We'll be filing other charges against a couple of the youths," said Sgt. Olive, "public intoxication, unlawful assembly and peace disturbance."

"This is a long story," said Sgt. Olive in reference to events leading up to the Friday incident. "Several days ago, at a dance held at Benton, a Chaffee youth was struck with a beer mug, suffering a cut which required 10 stitches. Since that time, a sort of feud has been brewing between youths of the two towns," the sergeant said.

"Then, Thursday night, four boys from Scott City came down here, and a fight broke out. By the time police were notified and got to the scene, everybody involved had left," he said.

"I was expecting more trouble Friday night," said Sgt. Olive. "So, we put on another patrolman and car. About 10 p.m., we received a call from Cape County authorities that three carloads of boys were possibly en route to Chaffee with lead pipes and also possibly armed."

The police officer said Chaffee authorities were heading out of town to intercept the youths, but met them coming into town. They were stopped at Circle Park. Eight male subjects, ranging in age from 16 to 22, were in each car, police said.

CARIFESTA SET

Ford heads regional conference

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Harold D. Kuehle of Cape Girardeau, state director of activities in Missouri for the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals, has announced the appointment of Jack N. Ford of Jackson as chairman of the Cape Girardeau regional conference on Handicapped Individuals.

In making the appointment, Kuehle said, "I am certain that Jack Ford will do an outstanding job as regional chairman. He has long shown a great interest and dedication to improving the lives of handicapped citizens of the southeast Missouri area."

The stated purpose of the White House conference, to be held in Washington in May 1977, is threefold:

—To provide a national assessment of the problems faced by individuals with mental and physical disabilities.

—To generate a national awareness of those problems.

—To make recommendations to the President and Congress which, if implemented, will enable individuals with handicaps to live their lives independently with dignity and full participation in community life to the greatest degree possible.

Kuehle stated that with this purpose as his guide, Ford, as regional chairman, will be involved in organizing the Cape Girardeau conference, plus several mini-conferences in the 23 counties included in his region, in such a way as to involve as many handicapped individuals and parents and guardians of handicapped individuals as possible.

They will be asked to actively participate in these meetings or submit written statements expressing their problems and recommendations for the solution of these problems. The Cape Girardeau conference will be held in early November. Those wishing additional information should contact Ford.

Symington rally is scheduled for tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A rally and fund-raising event, in behalf of 2nd District Rep. James Symington's campaign for the U.S. Senate, will be held at the Top of the Hill at the Sunny Hill Restaurant from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today.

The event is open to all Democrats and Democratic candidates. Tickets may be obtained by phoning Martha Howard Jones in Cape Girardeau at 335-6980 or Tom Gilmore of Sikeston at 471-1000. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Antique items will also be auctioned at the rally.

TONIS WON'T PART WITH MODEL T SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It has been driven 700,000 miles and is still going strong. That's the Model T Ford owned by Mike Tonis, 81.

Every day people stop him and want to buy the car.

"Never," he says. "I'll drive it forever."

He has been driving the navy blue car for 41 years and got it for $5 during the Depression years.

He says he has been offered $3,000 and a 1948 Cadillac.

He drives the Model T regularly. It runs fine and rarely gives Tonis any trouble.

Chaffee Rotary installs officers

CHAFFEE — New officers for the Chaffee Rotary Club for 1976-77 were installed Tuesday evening at a dinner held at the Brooks Inn.

Stone Manes of Jackson a past district governor for Rotary district 609, installed the new officers who are: Wayne Crippen, as president, succeeding William Vickery; Jack Leslie Burnett, serving his second year as vice-president; Richard Smiley, who will continue as secretary, a position he has held since 1972; and Morris Seabough, as treasurer, succeeding Jim Chronister.

Manes, pointed out that the Rotary gives businessmen of the area the opportunity to have fellowship and develop lasting friendships.

Retiring president William Vickery was recognized for his outstanding contribution for leading the Chaffee Rotary Club through a most successful year.

In his acceptance speech President Crippen said "This is truly a privilege because of his great respect for the Rotary and the Chaffee Rotary Club members."

Crippen said he had been a member of the club under three presidents and it is awesome how the membership is willing to rally behind a chairman of a certain committee when something needs to be accomplished and remarkable how the membership will work together in promoting fund-raising activities to help finance worthy causes in the community.

It is good to see the businessmen gather every Tuesday evening for the purpose of developing stronger friendships and having fellowship Crippen said.

Chaffee officer injured in fracas

CHAFFEE — A policeman suffered a broken nose and facial injuries and two Scott City youths required treatment at a hospital here, following a fracas that erupted when Chaffee policemen stopped three cars loaded with youths Friday night.

Two Scott City men, Paul W. Chaney, 18, and Anthony R. Chaney, 20, have been charged with felonious assault on an officer and two more Scott City men will face misdemeanor charges in City Court arising from the incident.

Chaffee Patrolman Robert Grubbs and Sgt. Ray Olive stopped the cars at Circle Park here in an effort to avoid a possible gang fight between youths of the two cities.

"After stopping the cars, I asked one of the youths for his identification and he gave me the name John Doe," said Sgt. Olive. "He was using offensive, abusive language, and I placed him under arrest, and he resisted."

In the fracas that followed, Patrolman Grubbs was struck on the face and his nose broken.

"We'll be filing other charges against a couple of the youths," said Sgt. Olive, "public intoxication, unlawful assembly and peace disturbance."

"This is a long story," said Sgt. Olive in reference to events leading up to the Friday incident. "Several days ago, at a dance held at Benton, a Chaffee youth was struck with a beer mug, suffering a cut which required 10 stitches. Since that time, a sort of feud has been brewing between youths of the two towns," the sergeant said.

"Then, Thursday night, four boys from Scott City came down here, and a fight broke out. By the time police were notified and got to the scene, everybody involved had left," he said.

"I was expecting more trouble Friday night," said Sgt. Olive. "So, we put on another patrolman and car. About 10 p.m., we received a call from Cape County authorities that three carloads of boys were possibly en route to Chaffee with lead pipes and also possibly armed."

The police officer said Chaffee authorities were heading out of town to intercept the youths, but met them coming into town. They were stopped at Circle Park. Eight male subjects, ranging in age from 16 to 22, were in each car, police said.

CARIFESTA SET

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — The second Caribbean festival of the arts, Carifesta '76, opens here July 23 for an 11-day run.

The festival will draw participants from 35 countries in the West Indies or bordering on the Caribbean Sea.

Ford heads regional conference

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Harold D. Kuehle of Cape Girardeau, state director of activities in Missouri for the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals, has announced the appointment of Jack N. Ford of Jackson as chairman of the Cape Girardeau regional conference for the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals.

In making the appointment, Kuehle said, "I am certain that Jack Ford will do an outstanding job as regional chairman. He has long shown a great interest and dedication to improving the lives of handicapped citizens of the southeast Missouri area."

The stated purpose of the White House conference, to be held in Washington in May 1977, is threefold:

—To provide a national assessment of the problems faced by individuals with mental and physical disabilities.

—To generate a national awareness of those problems.

—To make recommendations to the President and Congress which, if implemented, will enable individuals with handicaps to live their lives independently with dignity and full participation in community life to the greatest degree possible.

Kuehle stated that with this purpose as his guide, Ford, as regional chairman, will be involved in organizing the Cape Girardeau conference, plus several mini-conferences in the 23 counties included in his region, in such a way as to involve as many handicapped individuals and parents and guardians of handicapped individuals as possible.

They will be asked to actively participate in these meetings or submit written statements expressing their problems and recommendations for the solution of these problems. The Cape Girardeau conference will be held in early November. Those wishing additional information should contact Ford.

Symington rally is scheduled for tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A rally and fund-raising event, in behalf of 2nd District Rep. James Symington's campaign for the U.S. Senate, will be held at the Top of the Hill at the Sunny Hill Restaurant from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today.

The event is open to all Democrats and Democratic candidates. Tickets may be obtained by phoning Martha Howard Jones in Cape Girardeau at 335-6980 or Tom Gilmore of Sikeston at 471-1000. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Antique items will also be auctioned at the rally.

TONIS WON'T PART WITH MODEL T
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It has been driven 700,000 miles and is still going strong. That's the Model T Ford owned by Mike Tonis, 81.

Every day people stop him and want to buy the car.

"Never," he says. "I'll drive it forever."

He has been driving the navy blue car for 41 years and got it for $5 during the Depression years.

He says he has been offered $3,000 and a 1948 Cadillac.

He drives the Model T regularly. It runs fine and rarely gives Tonis any trouble.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, July 19, the 201st day of 1976. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1918, during World War I, German armies began retreating across the Marne River after their last big offensive in France had been repulsed by the Allies.

On this date:
In 1553, the daughter of England's King Henry VIII, Mary, was proclaimed Queen after Lady Jane Grey had been deposed.

In 1821, the English King, George IV, was crowned.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began.

In 1943, during World War II, the Italian city of Rome was bombed for the first time.

In 1964, Algeria's President Ahmed Ben Bella was deposed in a bloodless, army-backed coup.

In 1974, the ailing Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco, temporarily transferred power to Prince Juan Carlos.

Ten years ago: North Vietnam threatened to prosecute American pilots shot down over that country as war criminals.

Five years ago: There was a coup in the Sudan that deposed the military government headed by Maj. Gen. Gaffar al-Numaniri.

One year ago: The U.S. Defense Department challenged an American navy plan to build a fleet of 12 nuclear-powered super aircraft carriers.

Today's birthdays: Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota is 54 years old. Actor Pat Hingle is 52.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the American Council of Safety at Annapolis, Md. informed Virginia Council President John Page that British troops had landed on Maryland's St. George's Island and appeared to be throwing up entrenchments.

Too late to change ballots

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick says the multicolored punch-card ballot system to be used in St. Louis and Jackson counties for the primary election does not conform to Missouri law. But he said it was too late and would be too costly to change.

The election law says the ballots should be printed on "plain white paper," he said. The Kansas City Election Board will be using a different system than the system Kirkpatrick has criticized, which is to be used in the rest of Jackson County.

Kirkpatrick also said that the two counties had violated his regulations which say that a voter should not have access to more than one party ballot in a punch-card voting device.

To print new ballots now would cost St. Louis County $40,000, Kirkpatrick said. The cost of new ballots for the portion of Jackson County outside Kansas City was estimated at $20,000.

In a close race, Kirkpatrick indicated that the failure to follow the law and regulations could, in his opinion, lead to contested races.

NEW MADRID—Four New Madrid County representative representatives to the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council whose terms will expire Aug. 1 have been re-appointed, and one new appointee was named to one-year terms by the New Madrid County Court.

Reappointed to the council were Associate Judge John H. Calvin of Sikeston Route Three, Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo and Walter Ivy of New Madrid, and Marlin L. Swinger of Morehouse.

Donald Rone Jr. of Portageville was named a new member to succeed Lawrence Warren of Portageville.

Dr. Lamb

Keep away from diet fad-frauds

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know something about the 4-in-1 vitamin, containing lecithin, kelp, vitamin B-6 and cider vinegar. Does this in anyway help in dieting? If so, how and how much should you take? I read that you should take two tablets after every meal. That's six a day or 42 tablets a week. Isn't that a lot to take?

DEAR READER — I wish people had as much interest in learning about a sensible diet that would give them a balanced diet and reverse or prevent obesity as they do in every new diet fraud — oops fad — that comes along.

Lecithin contains choline which is important to your nutrition. You can get plenty of it from lean meat which should be part of your sensible diet. Lecithin that you take as tablets or in food serves no other useful purpose. The choline in a well balanced diet is used by your liver to manufacture your own lecithin.

You will get all the vitamin B-6 you need in a well balanced diet. Taking an excess amount will not cause your body to miraculously start shedding pounds of energy (fat is stored energy).

Kelp is a seaweed that contains iodine, which you can also get from iodized salt. It also provides some bulk in its natural state when used as a major component of the diet as it is in Japan. The additional iodine will not help. The excess will be eliminated. Those who are sensitive to iodine may develop an iodine reaction. Those who have small thyroid glands, because of surgical removal or because part of the thyroid has been destroyed by an infection, may have further damage to the thyroid and develop an advanced state of a low or absent thyroid function called myxedema.

People lose weight because the body uses more calories than they consume. It is that simple. Your body uses energy to maintain itself, heat itself and cool itself as well as in many complex chemical reactions. It also uses energy for physical activity at work or play. When this total exceeds the number of calories you are taking in you will lose weight. Sickness will cause you to lose fat because the illness causes the body to use far more calories. So the only benefit you get out of that diet you are talking about is an associated decrease in calorie intake that goes with the pills.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, to give you the basis for building your own balanced weight control diet. The trick to losing fat and staying slender is to learn how to eat properly. That is what a reducing diet should teach you. With that knowledge you can then stay on the kind of program that fits your life style and keeps you healthy as well as slim and beautiful.

People on crash diets end up failing, or slipping back to the old patterns that caused the obesity in the first place.

I'd like to emphasize again that crash diets may cause you to lose muscle mass. After the diet is over you will have to eat less every day than you should because you have lost vital muscle mass.

What's the law

The case of the explicit parents

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

The Joneses were extremely progressive parents who believed more in doing than in don'ting. Consistent with their progressiveness, they didn't go for such abstract concepts as "the birds and the bees."

Consequently, when it came time, in their judgment, for their 12-year-old son to learn about the facts of life, instead of merely telling him, they showed him. They demonstrated the method of procreating the human race and gave a four-star performance.

When the authorities heard about it, however, they gave the Joneses an "X" rating and charged them with the crime of knowingly committing a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child under age 14.

"While being progressive may be okay," the district attorney told the judge, "making love in front of a 12-year-old kid is strictly regressive."

"Not when it's your own child," responded Mr. Jones. "As parents, my wife and I had an absolute right to prepare him for the realities of life. Any restriction of that prerogative is a violation of our right of privacy."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the explicit parents of having committed a lewd and lascivious act?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the right of privacy does not contemplate an unrestricted privilege of engaging in sexual relations at such times and places as one may desire, and in the presence of another. To do so before a youth under 14 years of age, concluded the judge, despite the fact that the parties are his parents, is nonetheless a lewd and lascivious act.

Symington says

Rural health care in need of change

SPRINGFIELD — Health care in the rural areas of Missouri was the topic at a news conference conducted today by 2nd District Rep. James Symington, D-St. Louis, a U.S. Senate candidate.

According to statistics released by Symington, two Bootheel counties with populations between 10,000 and 24,999—Mississippi and New Madrid—have no hospital beds available within the counties and only four doctors each.

Symington said these statistics show that counties of this size have a ratio of one doctor for every 3,300 people. "That is exactly the same ratio as exists in the five Central American countries of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. It is unacceptable—and it is time we change it," Symington said.

Citing the fact that the 21 per cent of Missouri's citizens who live in rural areas have only five percent of the state's doctors, Symington stressed his support for incentives to bring doctors into rural areas. He said a guaranteed loan program for medical students which would encourage service in medically understaffed areas and a change in the tax laws to encourage group practices in rural areas would provide those incentives. Symington also pointed out the federal government's failure to recognize the problems in rural health care. "Instead of being part of the solution, it is in many ways part of the problem," the congressman said. Given the fact that only 28.8 per cent of federal health expenditures in 1972 went to rural areas, Symington urged an end to the inequities in reimbursement rates to rural areas under the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

In addition, Symington said he has introduced a bill which would change the Medicare law to permit reimbursement for physician extender services. Citing the 10 to 15 per cent decrease in hospitalization time accomplished with the help of physician extender programs, the congressman said his bill would not only "provide more access, particularly for the elderly, to health care in rural areas, but it will save the patient and the Medicare program money."

Symington also discussed his support of the Emergency Medical Services Act, which has improved ambulance service in the state, and his support for the development of satellite community health centers in rural areas.

The congressman said that rather than spending vast amounts of money or creating new bureaucracies, the government must redefine its goals and use a common sense approach to solve the problems of health care for those who live in rural areas.

"In a country where we justifiably pride ourselves on the quality of our medical care, we cannot tolerate the further decline of health care for so large a number of our citizens," Symington said.

Senate race turns into political drama

By TERRY GANEY

Associated Press Writer
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A senator's son, a veteran politician and a television personality will star Aug. 3 in a Missouri political drama entitled the Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate. A flamboyant mayor will be cast in a supporting role.

But although this cast of characters once held the promise of an interesting political campaign, some of the actors themselves are saying it's been disappointing, since a necessary ingredient—the issues—is missing.

"This is a funny campaign," says former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, the veteran politician running in his fourth statewide campaign. "It's been disappointing because of the lack of issues." In 1964, we had straight out eyeball-to-eyeball issues. It's been hard to get that sort of thing out of this campaign."

U.S. Rep. James Symington, seeking the opportunity to succeed his father, says he runs into "pools of interest" in the campaign, but that "people are kinda cautious this year."

"They don't want to be swept off their feet. They're going one step at a time," the St. Louis County Democrat says.

Congressman Jerry Litton, best known to most Missourians from his TV program "Dialogue with Litton," says the lack of issues "has left the media with nothing to cover but gossip."

He blames Symington, saying he has "decided to run on his name."

Charles Wheeler, the outspoken mayor of Kansas City, says "if there's public apathy, I think it's because there's media apathy."

These four men are seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Stuart Symington, who announced retirement plans last year. Whoever wins will face Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the likely Republican nominee, who nearly beat Stuart Symington in the general election six years ago.

Although there's been no set of issues on which the candidates have debated during the past several months, each has taken a stand on what he believes the issues to be. Hearnes, who will be 53 next Saturday, believes the public wants an end to deficit spending by Congress.

"The big issue is our financial stability," says the former two-term gov. ernor. He is staunchly against abortion and believes the first phase of the construction of a dam on the Meramec River should be completed, but that the rest of the Meramec Basin project of the

U.S. Army Corp of Engineers should be reviewed.

Symington, 48, finds the big question on peoples' minds is "Can we trust you?"

"Behind that question is a memory of disappointment," he says referring to congressional scandals and Watergate. He also said he believed "government intervention in private lives, farms and businesses; increasing government controls" to be a major concern for Missourians.

Litton, 39, says "the major feeling of the people of the state is that they are tired of politics of the past—that politicians don't understand them and that government is not responsive to their needs."

Warren Hearnes was successfully running for statewide office 16 years ago when Symington was a Washington, D.C. lawyer and Litton was raising a family and plowing fields in Chillicothe.

Eh was elected secretary of state in 1960, and after serving a four-year term, he ran successfully for governor, serving two terms until 1972.

"It's a Hearnes-Symington race," says the former governor. "I guarantee it; you can bet money, marbles or charcoal."

"Litton is trying to draw Symington out and not doing a very good job of it. Symington is running a low-key campaign," the Charleston Democrat adds.

Litton views it as a Hearnes-Symington contest only in the St. Louis area, and he hopes the two candidates will cancel each other out there.

"Our polls would indicate that Symington is the man that I have to beat," Litton says. "I will admit that Warren Hearnes has made some improvement in the last month, most of it would appear to be taking place in St. Louis, and to a lesser degree in mid-Missouri."

"He's making headway in St. Louis City and this pleases us since it will be coming at the expense of Jim Symington," Litton adds.

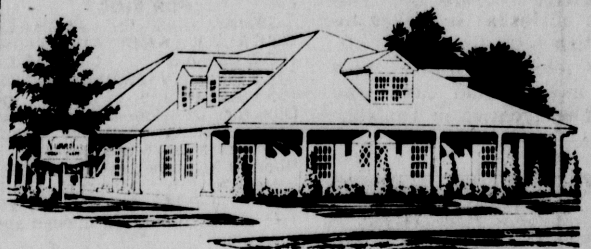

But while Litton believes Hearnes could counter Symington in St. Louis, he says Wheeler's presence in the race will have "absolutely no effect" on his own bid in the Kansas City area.

Symington views both Hearnes and Litton as being "equally formidable," but he disagrees with both opponents that he has been running a low-key campaign, and resting on his father's laurels.

"I've really tried to get out to the people. I've never declined an invitation," Symington said. He added that on eight separate occasions, Litton has declined joint appearances with Symington.

Symington said his polls show that about 20 per cent of those questioned have confused him with his father, but he also says that confusion can work to his detriment just as well as it could be his advantage.

"Many are saying he (Stuart Symington) is too old and it's time to vote him out," the congressman says.

City service they were 17 cents per mile.

The company had an operating loss of about $104,000 in 1975 on regularly scheduled passenger service, which was slightly offset by revenues from charter service.

Only two bus passengers testified in opposition to the proposed changes. Hearing on the schedule changes were held at Ft. St. and Charleston in April.

Symington says

Rural health care in need of change

SPRINGFIELD — Health care in the rural areas of Missouri was the topic at a news conference conducted today by 2nd District Rep. James Symington, D-St. Louis, a U.S. Senate candidate.

According to statistics released by Symington, two Bootheel counties with populations between 10,000 and 24,999—Mississippi and New Madrid—have no hospital beds available within the counties and only four doctors each.

Symington said these statistics show that counties of this size have a ratio of one doctor for every 3,300 people.

"That is exactly the same ratio as exists in the five Central American countries of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. It is unacceptable—and it is time we change it," Symington said.

Citing the fact that the 21 per cent of Missouri's citizens who live in rural areas have only five percent of the state's doctors, Symington stressed his support for incentives to bring doctors into rural areas. He said a guaranteed loan program for medical students which would encourage service in medically understaffed areas and a change in the tax laws to encourage group practices in rural areas would provide those incentives.

Symington also pointed out the federal government's failure to recognize the problems in rural health care. "Instead of being part of the solution, it is in many ways part of the problem," the congressman said. Given the fact that only 28.8 per cent of federal health expenditures in 1972 went to rural areas, Symington urged an end to the inequities in reimbursement rates to rural areas under the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

In addition, Symington said he has introduced a bill which would change the Medicare law to permit reimbursement for physician extender services. Citing the 10 to 15 per cent decrease in hospitalization time accomplished with the help of physician extender programs, the congressman said his bill would not only "provide more access, particularly for the elderly, to health care in rural

Symington also discussed his support of the Emergency Medical Services Act, which has improved ambulance service in the state, and his support for the development of satellite community health centers in rural areas.

The congressman said that rather than spending vast amounts of money or creating new bureaucracies, the government must redefine its goals and use a common sense approach to solve the problems of health care for those who live in rural areas.

"In a country where we justifiably pride ourselves on the quality of our medical care, we cannot tolerate the further decline of health care for so large a number of our citizens," Symington said.

Senate race turns into political drama

By TERRY GANEY

Associated Press Writer
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A senator's son, a veteran politician and a television personality will star Aug. 3 in a Missouri political drama entitled the Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate. A flamboyant mayor will be cast in a supporting role.

But although this cast of characters once held the promise of an interesting political campaign, some of the actors themselves are saying it's been disappointing, since a necessary ingredient—the issues—is missing.

"This is a funny campaign," says former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, the veteran politician running in his fourth statewide campaign: "It's been disappointing because of the lack of issues." In 1964, we had straight out eyeball-to-eyeball issues. It's been hard to get that sort of thing out of this campaign."

U.S. Rep. James Symington, seeking the opportunity to succeed his father, says he runs into "pools of interest" in the campaign, but that "people are kinda cautious this year."

"They don't want to be swept off their feet. They're going one step at a time," the St. Louis County Democrat says.

Congressman Jerry Litton, best known to most Missourians from his TV program "Dialogue with Litton," says the lack of issues "has left the media with nothing to cover but gossip."

He blames Symington, saying he has "decided to run on his name."

Charles Wheeler, the outspoken mayor of Kansas City, says "if there's public apathy, I think it's because there's media apathy."

These four men are seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Stuart Symington, who announced retirement plans last year. Whoever wins will face Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the likely Republican nominee, who nearly beat Stuart Symington in the general election six years ago.

Although there's been no set of issues on which the candidates have debated during the past several months, each has taken a stand on what he believes the issues to be.

Hearnes, who will be 53 next Saturday, believes the public wants an end to deficit spending by Congress.

"The big issue is our financial stability," says the former two-term gov. ernor. He is staunchly against abortion and believes the first phase of the construction of a dam on the Meramec River should be completed, but that the rest of the Meramec Basin project of the

U.S. Army Corp of Engineers should be reviewed.

Symington, 48, finds the big question on peoples' minds is "Can we trust you?"

"Behind that question is a memory of disappointment," he says referring to congressional scandals and Watergate. He also said he believed "government intervention in private lives, farms and businesses; increasing government controls" to be a major concern for Missourians.

Litton, 39, says "the major feeling of the people of the state is that they are tired of politics of the past—that politicians don't understand them and that government is not responsive to their needs."

Warren Hearnes was successfully running for statewide office 16 years ago when Symington was a Washington, D.C. lawyer and Litton was raising a family and plowing fields in Chillicothe.

Eh was elected secretary of state in 1960, and after serving a four-year term, he ran successfully for governor, serving two terms until 1972.

"It's a Hearnes-Symington race," says the former governor. "I guarantee it; you can bet money, marbles or charcoal."

"Litton is trying to draw Symington out and not doing a very good job of it. Symington is running a low-key campaign," the Charleston Democrat adds.

Litton views it as a Hearnes-Symington contest only in the St. Louis area, and he hopes

the two candidates will cancel each other out there.

"Our polls would indicate that Symington is the man that I have to beat," Litton says. "I will admit that Warren Hearnes has made some improvement in the last month, most of it would appear to be taking place in St. Louis, and to a lesser degree in mid-Missouri."

"He's making headway in St. Louis City and this pleases us since it will be coming at the expense of Jim Symington," Litton adds.

But while Litton believes Hearnes could counter Symington in St. Louis, he says Wheeler's presence in the race will have "absolutely no effect" on his own bid in the Kansas City area.

Symington views both Hearnes and Litton as being "equally formidable," but he disagrees with both opponents that he has been running a low-key campaign, and resting on his father's laurels.

"I've really tried to get out to the people. I've never declined an invitation," Symington said. He added that on eight separate occasions, Litton has declined joint appearances with Symington.

Symington said his polls show that about 20 per cent of those questioned have confused him with his father, but he also says that confusion can work to his detriment just as well as it could be his advantage.

"Many are saying he (Stuart Symington) is too old and it's time to vote him out," the congressman says.
